DIMENSION

IN THE TIME YET TO COME, WHEN SKEPTICAL grandchildren ask, "What was high school like when you were young?" we hope you will use this GRISTMILL as an accurate and moving answer. This answer is in the form of pictures and words. Photography and language are merely two-dimensional; since life has many dimensions, some of them yet even unknown, mere words and pictures must fail to completely describe any facet of life. However, language is the communication of human thought and therefore, in a sense, of life itself. Yet, one word does not often equal one thought; more often, especially in senior English themes, fifty words equal absolutely no thought at all. However, some words represent many thoughts; these are the words that are most descriptive of life. We have chosen one of these words, dimension, to describe the complexities of student life at Shaker.

A PLACE IN SHAKER

THE MOST OBVIOUS DIMENSIONS OF SHAKER ARE THE length, width, and height of the buildings we lived in for seven hours a day. Seven hours in actual classes, more hours in play rehearsals, in sports practice, or in just idling about the halls waiting for someone.

Most of our teen-age joys and sorrows took place within those gaunt brick walls shielded with ivy. At first thought it might seem as though the building's primary action was restraint: there were more Shakerites this year than ever before, but the halls stubbornly refused to become any wider. Everyone who ever tried to go against the crowd in the main hall commented on the vicious perversity of the architect who made everything three feet too narrow.

Despite the crush, most Shakerites managed to find a special place to go with their friends during their free moments. Almost everyone at one time or another rombled down to the Social Room to lounge in the big chairs and talk about nothing in particular, or to play cards, or to listen to records. When the weather was fair, some went out to the stadium to loaf in the sun and watch the gym classes.

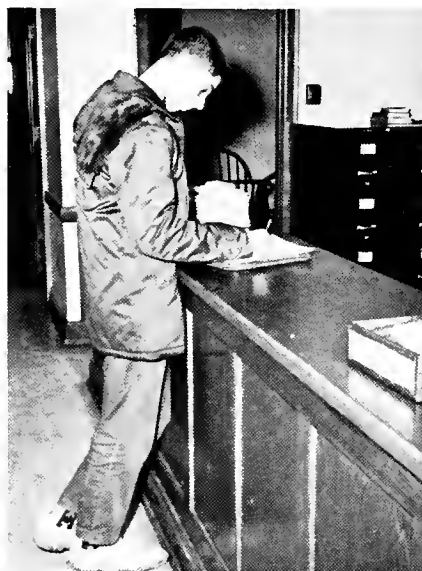

Those seniors who were fortunate enough to know the student treasurers found the Student Activity Office a convenient place to meet and talk. Many others simply used a friend's homeroom or the hall in front of the small auditorium as a meeting place. At any rate, for nearly every Shakerite there was some part of Shaker that was more special than any other part.

OPEN DOOR OF SHAKER

FOR NEARLY EVERY SHAKERITE THERE WERE SOME PLACES IN the Shaker building that were more special than any others. Here we lustily cheered a sports team to show our approval and hope; here we sat, talked with friends, and slowly relaxed; here we listened, studied, and learned. The places are unforgettable because they are associated with unforgettable emotions: hope, and despair; complacency, and indignation; disillusion, and revelation.

The places are memorable because in them moved memorable people who aroused those emotions and shared in them. The stadium was connected with defeat, and the boys who overcame it: here Shaker fans of great endurance sat through the cold afternoons, almost too numb to cheer except by their presence. The stadium was connected with victory and the boys who achieved it: here Ippolito roused the football team to a supreme effort against Lakewood with his artful passing; here Mr. Rupp announced that the Shaker boys at Dartmouth had won the Dartmouth plaque for our school.

These were the noisy emotions, the exuberant ones. The emotions of the classroom were more quiet and less obvious, but they made an impression that may last longer. Classroom experiences were not universal; because of the large number of students, it was impossible for everyone to study under any one teacher. Yet no one who knew Mr. Bristol can ever forget the amazing accuracy with which he fired spent chalk into File 13—the wastebasket! Mr. Harbourt's delightful alphabet soup will remain with us so that we cannot forget the value of id. sig. in a DTQ—identification and significance in a Deep Thought Question.

Such teachers endeared themselves to us by their original approaches to teaching. Their highly individual expressions of their passion for teaching inspired us, educated us, and helped to make the years at Shaker unforgettable.

FAIR SHAKER

. . . IN HER FRAME OF GREEN. THIS is how we shall remember our school. We shall remember the sundrenched beauty of quiet afternoons when we lounged under the protective trees that line the oval green where Shaker stands. We shall remember the great show the fat grey squirrels used to put on just outside the first floor classroom windows, running and flaunting their tails and hiding nuts.

We shall remember that here we pursued academic perfection, that ever receding dimension. Here we tried to gain variety of experience through participation in clubs and activities. We made our greatest achievements in our last year, as seniors. Especially as seniors, but throughout our high school years, we were deeply concerned with time, the fourth dimension of life. We did not confine our education to the high school, but tried to extend our knowledge by going out into the homes and shops of the Shaker community.

Our education was a life process measurably influenced by the people around us—both teachers and students. They caused us to change our ideas, thoughts, and, sometimes, our ways of behavior. Our relations with them changed our perspectives. We saw quiet tragedy in a dark corner, and we learned that life is hard. We saw some of the individual nobility which man has attained, and we learned that life is good. We shall remember Shaker as a place of beauty where the individual spirit could grow.

STUDENT LIFE

HIGH SCHOOL IS THE TWILIGHT OF THAT over-analyzed stage of life, adolescence, and it is the dawn of reality. It is a peculiar combination of an end and a beginning. Here the uncomplicated but cloudy world of childhood meets its end and emerges as a world beginning to assume the dimensions of adulthood.

There are three years for this transition; and each of the three has a particular personality and attitude. The sophomore year is exuberant and expectant; the junior, happy and enthusiastic; and the senior, filled with satisfaction, anticipation, and perhaps a bit of reminiscence. Three years of time have brought a change. And when they fall into perspective, there is a bit of regret for things undone and a bit of happiness for the things accomplished and the fun that came along.

An individual develops in accordance with the dimensions of his life; and time is the fourth and most significant dimension. It does not seem to pass evenly: there are those endless days which drag on forever, and there are those hours which change from the future to the past with almost no sensation of a present. Its effect is constant, though, for there is a change in each person as time carries on his life and is spent as high school years.

Students Join Together in the Search for Identity

Three years . . . three years of trying, growing, searching . . . three years to learn, to develop in skill, to discover interests and talents—this was high school. Fifteen hundred searching people, fifteen hundred different methods, different directions and results—this too was high school. And harmony was there along with discord, variety with monotony. The searching led these fifteen hundred onto the tennis courts, the baseball diamond, the stage, the scholarship roll, into the orchestra pit, the meeting room, and those quiet places where individual accomplishment is born. Still another search was common to all these fifteen hundred: the search for themselves, for identity. And this led from the group domination of the earlier days to the later signs of individuality and, perhaps, maturity. It fostered that tendency to gather in pairs and groups, and people were everywhere together. Thus it was that social life—the dances, the impromptu action, the gossip, the silence—was so essential a part of the days.

Shaker's Dramatists Present

"Mister Roberts"

"Roberts" rehearsal finds energetic sailors in bunk.

Back-stage fun includes ink tattoo on Dotty McKee's hand.

The weeks in which "Mr. Roberts" was perfected were a time of intense activity. A great mixture of people worked toward the common goal, doing the countless things, small and large, on which a dramatic production is built. They built and painted sets, made costumes, learned the script, and sold tickets. And their joint efforts accomplished not only the most successful non-musical production in Shaker's history but a genuine feeling of harmony and unity within the group.

The mad week begins with a flood of floaters.

Parades clog the early-morning halls.

Candidates strive for attention with noise.

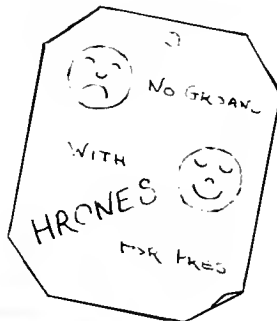

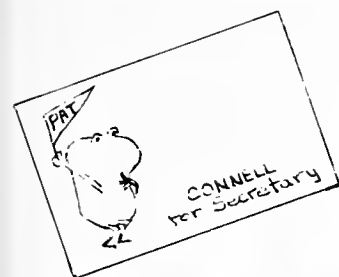

Enthusiastic supporters may be carried away in the spirit of things.

Insanity subsides for a serious examination of individual qualifications.

Then there is that time when the votes are cast, their decisions yet unknown.

Election '59

A mad craze swept the school in the week before spring vacation. Parades, skits, floaters, and noise filled the halls. Campaigns ran wild! And then it happened: the 1960 student council officers were elected.

Campaigning for office is a custom which has developed from the theory of a democratic student government. In an attempt to secure truly representative officers, the mad week was introduced. It was modeled after traditional political campaigns—and has grown with the Student Council until it must now be controlled instead of encouraged. It remains as a period of examination; candidates struggle to find interesting and important issues to make an impact on the voting mind. And many a candidate has won with a dynamic platform.

This year ends a period of student government history, for it is the last in the high school for Mr. L. R. Throilkill, one of the founders of Shaker's council. He has been a major influence through the years since 1926 in nurturing the evolutionary development of the council based on the philosophy of giving the students all the responsibility they can handle. He has seen the council grow in size, and face varying problems from the tassing of students into the then existent campus lake to this year's parking situation and he has lent the supporting hand in the establishment of the now complex and vital student fund system.

Although Mr. Klyver has been the Student Council advisor for the past few years, "Uncle Bus's" help and good influence has not ceased. His presence will be missed and his personality long remembered.

The primary results take on the voice of the civics committee chairman, Ernie Lindsay.

And then the final news: Hrones, Cannell, and Bishop!

Individual study—the backbone of the days

A Frantic Blend of Work

Intensity! This was the tone of the days, the mood of the efforts and ambitions which gave direction to work and play. The basketball squad, the baseball team, the swimmers, all waged fierce battles in the fury of competition. The students working on science projects, the artists, the key winners, all struggled with difficult tasks in a spirit of concentration. As the time wore on, it caught up everyone in the role of student or athlete, and most were a little of both. Tension took hold at times—when the days were unbelievably full. And so the time was packed with activity, activity, activity.

The Big Year—An Ending and Beginning

The senior girls provide the beauty for the queens and courts.

In the last year is mixed the glow of self-importance and the worry of what is to come. The fun is supreme; honors and prizes shower on the big cheeses. Diversity takes over completely, for individuality has emerged to send each his separate way. When the three years fall into perspective, there is a satisfaction for the accomplishments and the growth and a regret far that not done and the lost opportunities. And always there is that sense of anticipation for the next years.

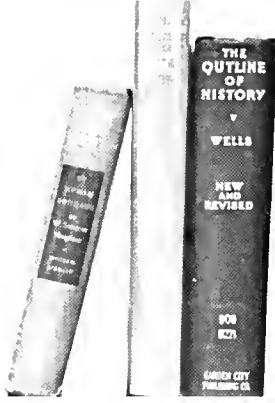

TIME TICKS ON SLOWLY FROM DAY TO day and hour to hour; its movement goes almost unnoticed. Time lends both a sweet and sorrowing shadow to all things past. It covers future hopes and future dreams with the mystical substance of uncertainty. The briefly passing minutes hold the key to ephemeral happenings and happiness — gay times, games, dances, romances.

Time lulls all into a sense of false security. These high school days seem never-ending. Yet, after giving each of the three years spent here careful scrutinization, the realization appears that each year has hurtled down that once endless road to a rather abrupt, startling and perhaps even awakening halt.

It seems as if the years move at a much more rapid pace than the minutes and the days. At the start of the high school years, time was a kind of sheltering factor. The 8:30 bell, classes, dates, weekends, parties—everything was set down clear and easy to follow. Looking back, not much real thought and effort were present at first. Then suddenly the slowly rolling ball of days and months was caught up in the whirlwind flashing speed of years. In the future, things past are unable to be remembered in a singular form—the year of that game, the year of those gay times.

Time is no longer friendly. It is calling all out of a protective shelter into a menacing, threatening open space where short-lived events do not matter, where a second chance is unlikely to be found. Friend time that has kept life lively during three years as a student becomes moody, wanting to be courted all over again. Thus time makes memories sad though they be of happy times. There is no need to wonder whom time beckons from this stepping place. It calls with a shrill and piercing voice luring each and every one out of the green and golden years into the shadows.

CURRICULUM

GUARANTEED TO ALL IN SHAKER: LIFE, liberty, and the opportunity to pursue excellence. Excellence is the nth dimension, the ever receding object of academic quest. The pursuit of excellence is the essence of the experience of education.

The driving force behind this pursuit is simply the inherent desire to know, to understand. This desire is one of man's basic motivations, although many students seem to do their best to stifle it. However, the influence of stimulating teachers is usually able to bring out this desire, to shape it, to give it form and direction.

The primary business of a high school is to provide an education. Shaker is unusually well organized for this business: superior laboratory facilities, advanced placement classes for the gifted, experienced counselors, and dedicated teachers blend to form a magnificent educational atmosphere. The key to this atmosphere is the general feeling of curiosity on the part of both teachers and students.

The best teachers we knew were also still students. They all combined a desire to understand with a passion for teaching which found expression in highly individual ways. We shall remember Mr. Cramer's broad, sweeping gestures, Mr. Pickering's challenging irony, Mr. Swaja's impassioned lectures.

Education was not limited to class periods. The Shaker staff led us in class, sponsored our extracurricular activities, counseled us willingly, and, as our friends and teachers, stayed long hours after school to teach and aid us.

Russell H. Rupp
Principal

One standard that can be used in measuring the success of the faculty is the academic achievement of the school's students. Shaker's students and graduates have compiled an outstanding record in many different fields.

Last year Shaker was named one of the top thirty-eight schools in the nation. Only those schools which placed twenty or more semi-finalists on the National Merit Scholarship test for two years in a row were honored in this way. This year in this test Shaker ranked first in the state of Ohio with twenty-two semi-finalists. Dartmouth College annually awards a plaque to the secondary school whose graduates compile the best scholastic average in their first year at Dartmouth. At an all-school assembly, Mr. Warren Crumline on behalf of the college presented this award to Mr. Rupp.

Shaker also received an award for its outstanding mathematics program, and our science students won top awards in all fields at local and state science days. Our administration and faculty are never content to rest on their laurels, but are always striving to better our program. This year our honors program was in full swing. It is to the faculty members who make our studies a challenge that most of the credit for our fine academic record must go.

Excellence in English Broadens Creative Horizons

Working to develop skill in clear expression and a high standard in literary taste, our English staff maintains Shaker's program of excellence in academic studies. During the sophomore year, grammar, vocabulary, and spelling are stressed; and several important English classics are studied. In the junior year, students study American literature with a special emphasis on its poetry. Our juniors develop poise and confidence in public speaking during three weeks of intensive speech training each semester. In senior English, students study English literature with most stress placed on modern novels and poetry and Shakespeare's tragedies, Hamlet and Macbeth.

Going even beyond this program, Shaker has an English honors program which is now in its second year. In addition to American and English classics, Greek literature is stressed. Beginning this year a remedial program has been introduced. This course emphasizes basic grammar, sentence structure, enlargement of vocabulary and reading improvement.

This year Shaker entered the field of creative writing. A magazine was founded and edited by members of the Gristmill staff. Literary works from all classes were contributed.

Students also find the library a source of relaxation with books to suit the varied interests of all. One of the school's most important rooms, the Melvin E. Space Conquest Stimulates Shaker Science

"Acid anyone?" inquires Mr. Lata.

Tomorrow's Fermis, Solks, and von Brouns are sitting in high school classrooms today. Perhaps one of them is beginning his training right here at Shaker where he can get a strong foundation in the basic sciences. All students are required to take at least one science, but for the interested student three are available.

In all science courses each student is encouraged to work on an outside project in his field of special interest; in biology such a project is required. Laboratory work is an integral part of the course of study in each science. In biology, the laboratory periods are devoted to a more intensive examination of significant plants and animals. In chemistry and physics, students attempt to prove to their satisfaction that the principles they have been taught do hold true. In all types of laboratory work adherence to the scientific method is cultivated.

Mathematical Analysis Sharpens Ingenuity

During this age of rapid technological advance, the importance of mathematics is being stressed as never before. Shaker's math program covers many fields. Three courses in algebra are available: elementary, intermediate, and advanced. Plane and solid geometry and trigonometry are also offered. Shaker also offers an accelerated math program to those with exceptional ability and interest. The students in this class cover all of the fields already mentioned plus some calculus and analytic geometry.

Some of the newer phases of mathematics are gradually being introduced into the curriculum. This year during the summer for the first time an experimental class in probability and statistics was conducted. Math teachers recognize that it is not enough to be able to solve problems mechanically and so stress reasoning and logical thinking. There is also available a course in applied mathematics for those students interested in immediate practical uses such as computation of income tax.

It has been said truly that to understand a person you must be able to talk with him in his own language. Shaker's broad program in both modern and classical language study enables students to get a strong background in several languages. Teachers try to give students a picture of social and cultural situations in the country in which the language is used.

The only classical language taught is Latin. Most students take two years as a basis for studying a more modern language. A third and fourth year are available. During the third and fourth year, students study such classics as Cicero and Virgil. French, with four years available, German and Spanish with two years in German and three in Spanish available, make up the group of modern languages. In all these courses reading and speaking ability are stressed. Several supplementary reading books are covered each year.

Students Achieve Cultural Depth in Fine Arts

To be a well-rounded individual, a person should develop a knowledge and appreciation of the fine arts. Shaker students learn through participation. For the musically inclined, there were several singing groups under the direction of Mr. Ellis. This year members appeared in Guys and Dolls and a Christmas production of Handel's Messiah. In the fall one of the most familiar sights to Shakerites is our marching band hard at work. Band members also participate in music contests throughout the year.

Shaker offers four years of art. During these courses problems in such fields as design, illustration, techniques, and construction are assigned. Each year the same general type of problem is covered with a change in media, technique, or presentation.

Advisers Help with Individual Problems

Any student can tell you that a teen-ager faces very profound problems during his high school years which can be among the most important of his life. To help him find the answers to his problems, Shaker has a highly trained and well informed group of advisers. With their help a student can decide on either a college preparatory course or a course which will prepare him to work immediately after graduation. To help the advisers, a record is kept on each student of the results of psychological tests, preference tests, I. Q. records, and, of course, past academic records.

Shaker this year bode a sad farewell to Nancy Hollister, our social director as she returned to college at the beginning of the second semester. Mrs. Borboro Preucil, formerly of the girls' physical education department, stepped into her shoes to guide the Social Council and the school's social program for the last semester.

Behind the scenes at Shaker the office staff, the custodians, the cafeteria workers, and the medical staff keep the complex machinery of a large school running smoothly. At the nerve center of the school, the office workers serve both staff and students alike. They can always tell a frustrated senior where to take his college board application or where to find those important papers for a teacher. Seniors are well acquainted with Miss Wood's office where all their college applications are processed.

Under the direction of Miss Barnes, the cafeteria staff serves a hot, nourishing lunch to famished students each school day. They also maintain the sandwich and candy line in the small cafeteria. When the school grows quiet at night, the custodians go to work in earnest. Dirty blackboards, slightly cluttered halls, and those bulging wastebaskets all get the treatment for the next day's onslaught of students. During the school day, they cheerfully perform the million odd tasks necessary to keep the school running smoothly.

Mrs. Kotarski is always ready and willing to aid any oiling Shakerite. She also assists our four doctors, Dr. Edmonds, Dr. Hopwood, Dr. James, and Dr. Endicott with their periodic examinations.

CLASSES

BECAUSE OF THE EXPERIENCE OF HIGH school, the underclass years bring great changes in perspective. After the relative shelter of elementary school and junior high, the stepped-up pace of activity in high school is preparation for the still more active adult years to come. The sophomore and junior years are filled with new studies, new situations, new experiences.

Broad fields of knowledge are opened to the underclassman in science, literature, languages, and social studies; he begins to realize the relationship between these subjects and his daily life. In the sophomore and junior years, there are many more chances to make friends, to be in different social situations, and to understand and to respect others. Extracurricular activities at Shaker cater to the interests and abilities of everyone. As sophomores, many students are members of clubs. As they become more and more interested, they may want to assume responsibilities in furthering the progress and influence of these organizations.

Growing progressively in excitement and drive, the underclass years were capped by the fervor of election week. By using energy and drive and by neglecting their homework, candidates and their supporters managed to gather to cut out floaters, make posters, and plan their campaign platforms.

During these years, the underclassmen had been steadily changing their viewpoints and the way in which they expressed their fundamental being. These were years of growing maturity in dimension of perspective.

Sophomore Class Officers

Plan Exciting Year

Class sponsor Mrs. Harbourt, Judy Lawry, and Marc Green look through the scrapbook for new dance ideas.

The sophomores, the class of '61, agree that they have had an exciting year. On entering school this fall, they encountered many difficulties which had to be overcome. Being teased and misguided by the upperclassmen was certainly upsetting at first. The amount of homework and the size of the school also presented problems. However, the sophomores made a rapid adjustment to high school life. As the boys began to participate in athletics and the girls were "rushed" by the senior boys, their problems slowly diminished.

How many sophomores will ever forget their biology course? Chasing butterflies and cornering grasshoppers in fields, dissecting a frog, or burning the midnight oil to finally complete a lab report: all these things are past now. In English class the sophomores were introduced to some classic literature, A Tale of Two Cities and Julius Caesar. Then there was the cramming for those first final exams!

The sophomores have managed to find their place scholastically, socially, and athletically. Their participation and enthusiasm in all activities have made this year a better one for both them and the upperclassmen.

Junior Class Officers

The junior class officers are Treasurer John Hibshman, Social Chairman Judy Forward, Vice President Roger Aaron, President Chuck Savoco, and Secretary Lola Ham.

Represent Active Group

Class sponsor Mr. Sturm discusses Roger Aaron's numerals from a biological viewpoint.

Learning the method of proving triangles congruent, memorizing the twenty-two amendments to our Constitution, preparing a really clever demonstration speech, or meditating on Thoreau's Walden—these were some of the tasks of the junior class. They all admit that the work was gruelling at times, particularly at the end of every grading period, but they have had a worthwhile and memorable year.

This year many of the juniors began to think of college. The College Board SAT's and Achievement Tests were quite an experience for a large percentage of the junior class. The demand for Word Wealth vocabulary books at the bookstore increased considerably after these tests, as juniors recognized the high standards for college admission.

The juniors tried to make this year one they might look back on as the very best. As upperclassmen they assumed more responsibilities in clubs and activities around the school. Their eagerness in promoting school functions and their general high spirits have shown their readiness to lead the school as seniors next year.

SENIORS

UNITED UPON THE RIM OF THE SHIFTING world, the seniors stand together to look back upon the high school year that, for them, was the greatest in magnitude of dimension: this was the seniors' last year in high school, the one in which they achieved their most significant successes.

The knowledge and experience they gained as underclassmen enabled them to alter their perspective and to assume the responsibility of leadership in school affairs. The responsibility was in itself the chief expression of their success: responsibility was bestowed as recognition of their former achievements and as an expression of faith in their energy and ability. As a class, led by Bill Stillwell, Lee Sanson, Mike Wolland, Pat Sanson, and Paul Henning, the seniors used this energy and ability in their successful management of Mister Roberts and Experience Day.

As individuals, the seniors strove toward particular goals. When they were successful they received recognition in the form of academic keys, athletic trophies, and the respect of their contemporaries. In their individual leadership, the seniors showed that they had learned that life is a serious business. They directed the clubs, sports, and school politics seriously, but not joylessly.

United upon the rim of the shifting world, the seniors stand together for one last moment to look ahead to the future. All the experience of the past has been only preparation for the things yet to come.

BOYS' SPORTS

SPORTS—A DIMENSION OF THE MIND AND spirit, as well as the body—was the focus of attention for many Shakerites throughout the past year. Not only sports but sportsmanship received attention as loyal fans enthusiastically supported their schoolmates in all their contests.

Whatever the dimensions of the playing area—100 yards of gridiron, 84 feet of hardwood, 20 yards of water, or 90 feet of basepath—Shaker defeated opposing schools so consistently that only one Red Raider team compiled a losing record. The year's athletic conflict produced the full range of school spirit—from wild elation—in the Lakewood cage upset—to blackest dejection—in the heartbreaking Heights gridiron loss. However, in the midst of any season, no matter what the record or league standing, Shaker could be sure that it was represented by a group of boys who knew the real meaning of such overworked terms as team work, good sportsmanship, and above all else—hard, sweaty, inglorious practice to achieve perfection.

In the picture at the left Jeff Korach and Bill Rupp mirror the despair which all Shakerites felt as they watched a driving rain wash away any hope for an upset victory over the powerful Shaw football squad. But, as in any year of victory and defeat, triumph, and tragedy, or excellence and mediocrity, many of us can recall other moments of supreme elation—moments like those 32 minutes in which Shaker fooled all the "experts" and crushed Lakewood's vaunted cage crew.

Red Raiders Rebound for Winning Season

Ippolito Chosen as All-Ohio Quarterback

Huge Heights Line Crushes Plucky Shaker

"Always outweighed, Never outplayed."

This summarizes the whole 1958 football season at Shaker. Facing opponents who sometimes outweighed them by as much as thirty pounds per man, the Red Raiders always put forth a maximum effort.

Opening the season with three well-played victories over independent opponents, the Raiders fell fast before L. E. L. opposition. However, with determination and self-confidence they rebounded to end the year above the .500 mark.

Basing their attack on the versatile skills of All-Ohio quarterback Vic Ippolito, the Raiders were a threat through the air and on the ground, inside and outside. With a fleet of fine ends as targets, Ippolito completed 16 out of 18 passes in the Garfield spectacular.

Pleasantest surprise of the year was the unexpected discovery of two steady runners in Roger Goldhamer and Dennis Reimer to supplement second-year men Bill Rupp and Harley Kravitz and third-year veteran Ippolito. Combined with deceptive ball handling, the abilities of these runners kept the defense guessing about Shaker's next move.

Individual honors went to Vic Ippolito who was chosen as All-L. E. L., All-Scholastic, and All-Ohio quarterback. Junior end Bill Stage was also chosen as a "Dream Team" member and Matt Harris was picked Most Valuable Lineman at Shaker.

Raiders Stage Offensive Spectacle;

Pre-season dope had Shaker slated for a losing year, but someone forgot to tell the Raiders before they played South in the opener. Playing alert, aggressive football, the team completely surprised the larger Flyers with a hard-hitting offense and a stingy defense. With Vic Ippalita calling the signals, the Raiders scored with the opening series of plays and were never behind. While Bill Rupp, surprising Roger Goldhamer, and junior Dennis Reimer were scaring Shaker markers, the Flyers could not move against the Raider defensive line. The final count had Shaker on top 20-0.

The next week against Maple Heights the Raiders sprung Ippalita loose with the opening kick-off as he sprinted 99 yards for a touchdown. After trading touchdowns, Ippalita fired an eight-yard scoring pass to Bill Stage to put Shaker in front to stay. Adding a third period tally for insurance, the gridirers tapped another foe, this time by a score of 30-16.

Playing under the lights for the first time in 1958, the Raiders visited Brush on September 26. With Ippalita passing for one touchdown to end Dick Balazs and scampering 55 yards for a second, the score was tied 14-14 at half-time. With two minutes remaining in the game, Ippalita charged 13 yards to tie the score and then flipped a two-point conversion to his co-captain Hal Schwartz. This proved the margin of victory, 22-20.

With both teams carrying undefeated streaks into the game, the annual joust with arch-rival Heights attracted an overflow crowd of more than 7,000 fans at Hasford Stadium. Facing a much heavier team the Raiders were unable to score in the first half due to an ingenious defensive formation used to battle up formidable Vic Ippalita. However, the courageous Shaker defense refused to allow the fired-up Tigers to cross the goal-line either. Heights scored early in the third quarter on the hard running of fullback Bob White. Shaker returned the compliment as Roger Goldhamer raced 25 yards on a draw play.

The Raiders were not to take this one, however. Later in the fourth quarter halfback Harley Kravitz was caught in the end zone for a safety while attempting an end sweep. This was the real margin of victory although Heights added a second score with three seconds left in the game to make the final score 14-6.

fleet of powerful backs against ineffective Shaker opposition, the Redmen buried the Raiders' hopes early in the game. Shaker's one score came in the last quarter when Ippolito found end Ralph Karlovec with an 11-yard aerial thrust. This was far from enough and Shaker dropped its second straight decision, 30-6.

Determined to regain their winning ways, the Raiders almost toppled a powerful Shaw squad. Outplaying the opposition on defense and offense, the Raiders looked like winners until a driving rain halted them. As the field became unplayable, the heavier Cardinals walked away with the game while the speedy Shaker backfield floundered in the mud. The final score stood 36-6, Shaker losing.

At Euclid on October 24, the Red Raiders went down to their fourth straight L. E. L. defeat. A fine clutch offensive drive had put Shaker ahead 16-12 in the closing minutes, but they couldn't hold Euclid. With minutes left the Panthers scored a touchdown and conversion to win 20-16.

After losing four straight games on the road, the Raiders rebounded against Lakewood on Homecoming Day, November 1. Leading at half-time on Hal Schwartz's safety 8-6, Shaker broke loose for four touchdowns in the second half. Even the line scored as Matt Harris returned an intercepted pass to score. Shaker snapped its losing streak, 34-6.

In the final game against Garfield Heights the senior-studded lineup put on an amazing offensive show. Kravitz, Ippolito, and Goldhamer all scored two touchdowns and juniors Jeff Korach and Dennis Reimer added solo scores. The line continued to score as guard Bill Pearlman returned an intercepted pass 50 yards. By the final gun a new scoring record had been set 66-48.

Junior Raiders Prep for Varsity Competition

Reversing the trend toward smaller and speedier football teams at Shaker, this year's Jay Vee squad presented a large but immobile front on the gridiron. Under the direction of sophomore coaches Fred Heinlen and Ed Stoch these boys practiced hard to bridge the gap between junior high play and regular varsity competition.

Although opponents found they could not easily run over this team, they soon discovered it was possible to run around it. The excellent defensive effort by the Jay Vees was not enough to counterbalance their lack of scoring power as they failed to win a single Lake Erie League contest.

The junior Raiders turned in their best effort of the season against Parma's championship team. Playing up to their full potential, the boys held Parma to a scoreless tie—no other team came this close to the Redmen all year. Another tie, 6-6, against traditional rival Heights, was the closest the team came to a victory in League competition.

Leading a fine defensive unit were Tom Gluntz, Larry Singerman, and Errol Cohen. These and several other players are slated to aid the varsity next season. If this Jay Vee unit can learn to play what Coach Heinlen terms "knock football," it will become a definite varsity asset in years to come.

Shaker Harriers Face Tough Schedule

Manager Silver records vital statistics.

At school's opening in September, and throughout the ensuing weeks, a fleet of eager and ambitious cross country candidates practiced several hours each day for the demanding two-mile meets. Since long-distance running requires great endurance, this practice schedule was tough and only the best runners survived to make the team.

Led by several hardworking senior runners, Shaker's harriers fielded one of their strongest teams this fall. However, as Coach Bob (Zorra) Rice lamented, "So did everyone else in the League." Against such strong opposition the Raider runners compiled a 2-6 record, finishing last in the Lake Erie League meet.

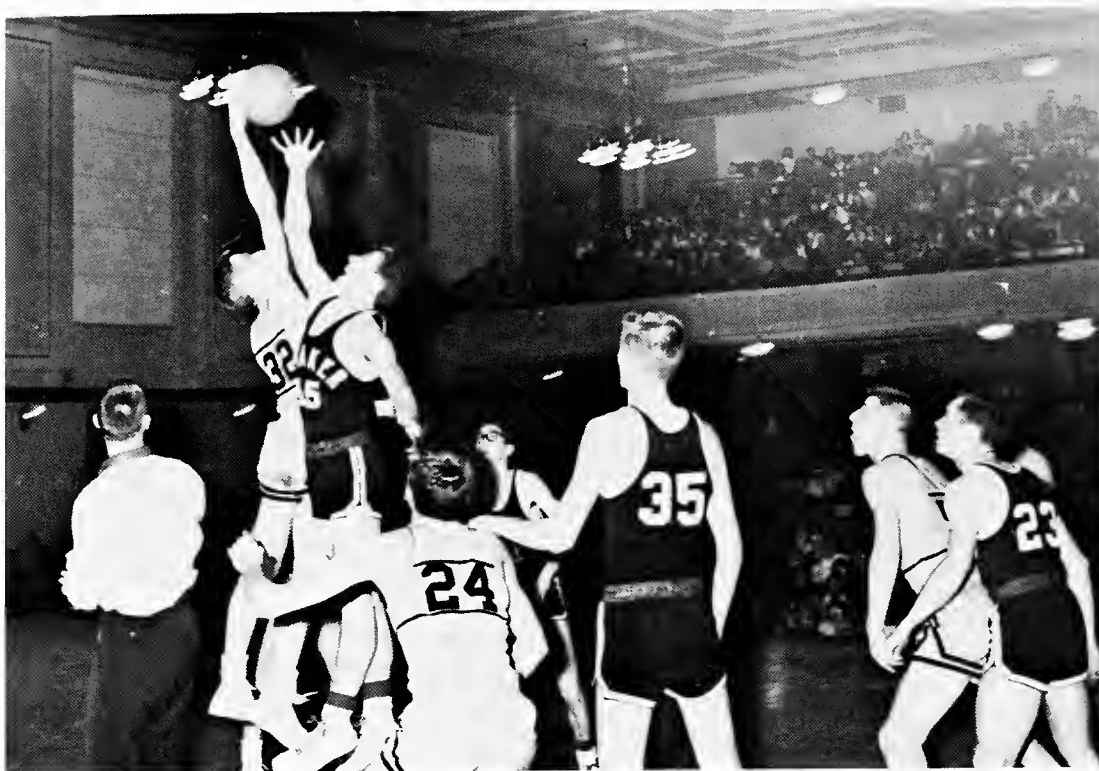

Bill Stillwell, smallest man on the squad, was named the most improved runner at season's end as he finished as Shaker's best runner. Another bright spot in the season was Captain Tom Bergin's fine time of 10:27 for the two-mile course. Other top Raiders included Pete Slavin, John Bergin, and Matt Hatchadarian.

Raiders Defeat Taller Rivals for Winning Year

Heinlenmen Switch to "Control" Ball;

Shaker Rated Among Top Ten in District

Intraducing a new philosophy of basketball strategy, the 1958-1959 edition of the Red Raiders continued last year's winning cage tradition. Led by three senior captains—Jack Sander, Dick (The Bird) Balazs, and Glenn (Goggles) Galenberg—Shaker faught its way back from the edge of oblivion to a respected place among the tap ten teams in the district.

Hampered by the traditional Shaker scarcity of big men for rebounding and pivot play, the Heinlenmen were overpowered by towering quintets from the other Lake Erie League schaals. Although Rick Oviatt and Jack Sander tried their utmost to cantain the opposiation's skyscrapers, the same theme recurred throughout the first half at the roundball season.

Despite fine outside shaating by Galenberg and Balazs, and the dazzling ball handling of Sander, the Raiders were unable to get that second shat at the offensive bucket or to maintain an effective control over the defensive backboard. Thus the Shaker Red and White fell in five successive L.E.L. contests—placing the Raider basketball fortunes at law ebb.

After the home-court lass to the Euclid Panthers, Caach Heinlen devised a new system of play utilizing the individual advantages of Shaker's personnel and neutralizing the height factor. The Red Raiders—to a man—decided to accept this new strategy in order to regain their winning ways. The new tactic—"control" ball.

In control-type basketball the offensive team attempts to keep control of the basketball until it has a chance for a near-certain basket. By following this tactic, high-scoring, wild-shooting, free-rebounding games are eliminated, and the non-control team must hit on every attempt if they are to stay close to the control players.

With Sander, Galenberg, and Balazs controlling the ball with expert dribbling and deceptive passing, the Raiders began to roll. Another feature of this new style of play was the "safety-valve" play of Vic Ippalita. By unselfishly refusing to shoot and by laying back to receive passes far from scoring range, Vic triggered many of the scaring plays. Junior center Rick Oviatt, much improved, began to pick off his share of the rebounds as the Shakerites were treated to a display of winning basketball in seven of the last eight regular games and to a State Tournament victory.

Slawly, but steadily, the Raiders gained their revenge over formerly victorious foes. One of the mast memorable of these comeback wins was the defeat of Lakewood's third-rated league leaders. Later the Shaker crew defeated Heights on the hardwood for the first time in three years.

Red Raiders Avenge Early Defeats;

Balazs leaps high to shoot against East Tech.

The Red Raiders began this year's campaign on an encouraging note when they traveled to Brush on November 26. Despite the usual height disadvantage, Shaker defeated the Arcs with a clever combination of deadly shooting and aggressive playing, 69-57.

In the next few weeks, however, Shaker fans witnessed four successive defeats in Lake Erie League play. In an away game at Lakewood, the Raiders were completely unable to cope with the tall and rugged Rangers. Thus Shaker began L.E.L. competition by losing badly, 65-47.

When Heights visited Shaker on December 12, the Raiders started without Galenberg and lost Sander midway in the game. The arch-foe Tigers poured it on the defenseless Raiders throughout the last half. Despite a nineteen-point effort by Balazs, Shaker fell deeper into the league cellar, 58-32.

In two away games at Parma and Shaw the Red Raiders found it impossible to break into the victory column against league opposition. Although Glenn Galenberg put on a dazzling scoring show with 30 points from the field, the Raiders lost to Parma 71-65. Next, Shaw found the smaller Raiders an easy mark in another Shaker defeat, 62-43.

Continuing their winning habit against independent schools, the Red Raiders outlasted a highly-rated Lutheran West outfit 61-48. However, back in league play once more, Shaker lost to Euclid in the last few minutes of play 64-61.

Coming into the Shaker game, Lakewood was rated third in the city and had not lost a game in L.E.L. play. Attacking with deliberate precision, dribbling and passing with accuracy, and defending with tenacity, the Raiders outplayed, out-shot, and outlasted the Rangers for a sweet 45-35 victory.

After an easy victory over Western Reserve Academy, 57-44, the Raiders traveled to the unfamiliar Heights High court. No one could have denied the fired-up Shakerites this first victory in three years. Pulling away in the last quarter, Shaker defeated Heights, 54-50. Back home a week later, the Raiders defeated another league rival, Parma, 52-47.

When Shaw visited the Shaker gym, it appeared that Shaker had wrapped up the contest with a superb first half. However, when both Balazs and Oviatt fouled out early in the last period, the Cardinals found the backboards were all theirs. Using its height to advantage, Shaw roared from behind to win, 60-56.

In their last two games the Red Raiders defeated Garfield Heights, 55-50, and felled Euclid, 63-61, on last-minute free throws by all-L.E.L. guard Glenn Golenberg. This ended regular season competition with Shaker tied for third in the Lake Erie loop on the basis of a 4-6 league record.

Entering State Tournament play in the Bedford sectional, the Shakerites were honored by being seeded fourth. By beating Garfield Heights, 57-47, Shaker gained the finals against defending state champion, East Tech. The skyscraping Scarabs used their huge height to prevent Shaker's usual control strategy from taking effect. Sometimes taking six or eight shots at the basket, the East Tech boys routed Shaker.

Jay Vees Find Success With Speedy Attack

Following the lead of the sophomore footballers, the Jay-Vee cagers did not look like a junior edition of the Red Raiders. With different type players and a completely different offense, the aspiring sophomore hoopsters compiled a 5-10 record.

This year's team included several tall boys who were potentially capable of carrying the rebounding load as well as some fine outside shots. Under the tutelage of Coach Nay Sanna, the JayVees played their opposing counterparts preceding the varsity contests throughout the season.

Using a deliberate, control-type offense, the sophomores gained little success in the early part of the season. The taller players, fresh from junior high, were unable to do the job that this style of play demanded of them, so the junior Raiders won few games. However, when Coach Sanna turned his boys loose in a new fast-breaking offense after mid-term, JayVee fortunes took a turn for the better. Winning three of their last four games, the sophomores, particularly the taller players, showed a much improved form.

Little men can rebound.

Afternoon Athletes Vie for Intramural Honors

Coach Rice Directs Varied Program;

Shakerites Compete at Shaw and Lakewood

In order to provide athletic competition for non-varsity athletes, Shaker High conducts an extensive intramural sports program. This year, under the watchful eye of Intramural Director Bob Rice, hundreds of Shakerites participated in many activities during all sports seasons.

This fall the touch football league occupied the after-school time of almost a hundred athletically inclined Shakerites. Playing in an 11-team circuit, representatives of all three classes vied for top honors on the gridiron. The eventual victor was an all-senior crew captained by Dick Young.

The annual inter-class swimming meet followed a familiar pattern, as the sophomores won another school title. Since no member of the varsity or junior varsity is allowed to participate in this event, the entering sophomores always have an advantage because of their superior numbers.

This same theme was carried out in the intramural wrestling tournament. With more than fifty boys struggling to achieve top ratings, the sophomores swept to victory.

After the last cut in varsity basketball, the intramural cage loop opened with a three division set-up. More than one hundred energetic Shakerites entered teams in the senior, junior, and sophomore leagues. The two outstanding teams in each league played a home-and-home series with their intramural counterparts from Shaw High.

At the end of the regular season, teams led by Matt Hatchadorian, Stan Chernett, and Tom Saloman were crowned champions of the various leagues. In the annual elimination tournament, Hatchadorian's quintet became all-school champions on a half-court shot in the last two seconds.

After the basketball players vacated the gym, volleyball became the sport of the moment. Six-man teams played nightly duels for school supremacy. Later, badminton tested reflexes and power in the annual tournament.

With the approach of fine spring weather, softball lured Shakerites outdoors once more. Several well-balanced teams competed in many close games until the end of school.

High caliber competition proved the downfall of the usually unbeatable Red Raider swimmers during the 1958-1959 season. Although the Starkmen improved throughout the year, opposing swim teams also raised the quality of their performances.

Beginning their preparations early in the fall, the wetbacks practiced hard for months before they even entered the water. With landlocked body building exercises and daily running schedules Mr. Stark assured himself of a perfectly conditioned crew. After intensive tryouts he was able to select his best swimmers for the gruelling season ahead.

The season's first meet foreshadowed later events. For the first time in history the water-borne Raiders were beaten by Euclid, 46-40. After making some changes in the lineup Coach Stark watched his mermen overwhelm Shaw, 69-18.

However, against Heights, Lakewood, and powerful Berea, the Red Raiders could not find the winning combination. After losing a close one to the Tigers, 46-40, the Raiders dropped a decision to Lakewood, 52-34. When star-studded Berea visited the Shaker pool the Braves displayed too much individual brilliance as they dunked Shaker, 48-38.

of the annual relay contests. In the Euclid relays the Raiders placed fourth, and later finished sixth in the Kent State Relays.

In the second half of the season the Raiders made a much-improved showing. After defeating Shaw, 51-34, the Starkmen drowned a powerful Western Reserve Academy team, which later beat a college swim team.

On January 30 the mermen trapped unwary Heights in the Shaker pool. Avenging their earlier defeat the Red Raiders stroked to a 47-39 triumph. The season ended on a losing note when the swimmers dropped two road meets to Lakewood and Berea by identical 55-31 scores.

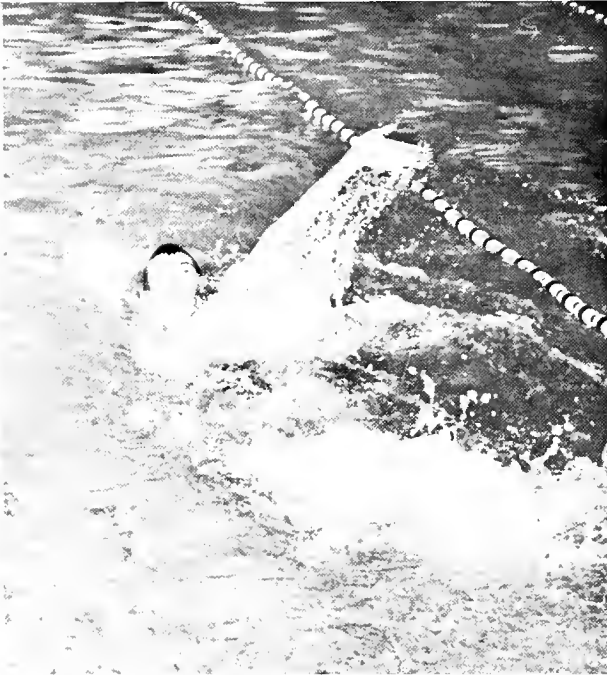

Finishing a strong second in the annual L.E.L. meet, and a hair-line third in the district meet, the Shakerites sent several performers to the state meet. Captain Mike Wolland was rated sixth in state diving competition and senior Laurie Osborn swam to a third place in the 100-yard freestyle race.

Because the Raiders will lose only four senior lettermen—Dave Beeson, Dave Cunningham, Wolland and Osborn—Shaker fans can be sure that such seasoned juniors as Bob Waldo, Doug Bell, Al Woodruff, Tom Stevens, Steve Davies, and Bob Sanders will present a strong threat to all future opposition.

Jay Vees Take Title with Undefeated Year

Sporting a well-balanced attack in almost all events the JayVee swimming team swept to nine wins and a tie in dual meet competition. Under co-captains, Mike Wodka and Brad Laycock the junior and sophomore natators showed exceptional depth and talent in the backstroke, breaststroke, and diving events.

Four Shaker junior varsity records fell this year. Jim Schultz broke the standard in the 100-yard backstroke race while Carl Weaver set a new mark for the 100-yard freestyle. Tom West stroked to record performances in both the 120-yard and the 160-yard individual medleys.

Outstanding point producers for the Lake Erie League Junior Varsity champions were Carl Weaver, Tom West, Brad Laycock, Dave Vail, Mike Wodka, and Jim Schultz. One indication of the strength of this group was the fact that six boys—Schultz, Laycock, Vail, West, Weaver, and Mickey Smith—although only JayVees, were selected to swim in the L.E.L. varsity meet.

A well balanced scoring punch in all weight divisions carried Coach "Zip" Zednik's Shaker grapplers to an overall 5-4 record in the 1958-1959 season. With a senior-studded lineup opposing Lake Erie League and independent foemen, the Red Raiders were able to present a dangerous front in every meet.

The grunt and groan set opened the season with four straight victories. They defeated Parma, 24-17, West High 30-9, Heights, 24-9, and West Tech, 24-19, before succumbing to perennially powerful Bedford, 43-0.

In the second half of the season, an apparent inability to pin hobbled Shaker in several close matches. This weakness cast the matmen victories over Maple Heights, 22-18, Lakewood, 20-14, and state champion Euclid, 19-18. Shaw, however, could not defeat Shaker and fell before the Raiders, 30-13.

Long hours of tiring practice each afternoon turned musclemen into canny competitors under the watchful eye of Coach Zednik. By teaching his team new holds and tactics "Zip" produced another top notch crew to face a tough schedule.

Henning, Goldstein Chosen as All-Leaguers

Leading the matadors this year was senior captain, Paul Henning, who posted a fine 7-2 record in the 145-pound class. Jerry Ferstman, wrestling at 112 pounds, won six while losing three. In the 133-pound class, junior Larry Janis fought his way to a 5-3-1 standing. Ricky Goldstein completed a 5-2 season in the 138-pound division while heavyweight Ernie Linsay finished with a 5-4 record. At season's end Goldstein and Henning were honored by being placed on the all-L.E.L. team.

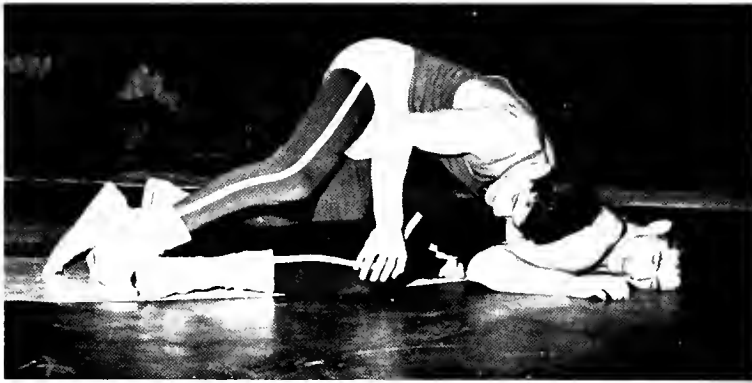

In the district meet at Kenston High, Shaker made a strong showing when Linsay, Ferstman, and Bill Pearlman won second-place ratings and travelled to the state tourney in Columbus. Captain Henning and Bob Alberga placed third, while Janis and Goldstein capped fourth place honors.

With several promising juniors and sophomores returning next season, Shaker is assured of another creditable performance on the mats. Likely competitors next year include Larry Janis, Mike Schneiberg, Ken Hegyes, and Jeff Burger.

Junior Raiders Prep For Varsity Rivalry

Readying themselves for competition in varsity meets next year, Shaker's JayVees bridged the gap between junior high and high school wrestling techniques. Coached by Bob Goodman, the junior Raiders fought their way to a 2-5 record this season.

Because many of the prospective JayVees did not participate in the annual intramural meet, the team took a longer than usual period to round into shape. However, after nightly practice sessions in the wrestling room the juniors and sophomores added many new holds to their individual repertoires. This intensive effort by both coaches and players enabled the Raiders to develop as fast as their rivals who have been wrestling for several years.

Coach Zednik expects to strengthen his varsity squad next year with the addition of several outstanding performers from this team. Sophomores Rick Brawn, George Caplan, Ken Korach, and Errol Cohen are several of the boys to watch on next year's varsity. Junior grapplers Dick Gref, Gary Helf, and Barry Lefkowitz will also represent Shaker in the future.

Considerably strengthened by the addition of several seasoned sophomore players, Shaker's 1958-1959 tennis team added another Lake Erie League championship to our school collection. Led by national boys' doubles champion, Warren Daane, the racketmen captured their fourth consecutive title, winning all their matches.

Singles players Warren Daane, Al Ganim, and Steve Hrones were supported by the doubles duos of Dick Morris—Jim Goetz, Pete Gibbon—Jules Koach, and Tom Shirreffs—Roger Klein. In winning all their fall matches the Raiders lost only three points of a possible thirty. Coach John Pickering facetiously claims that not even these would have been lost if the masses of cheering Shakerites attending the matches had not distracted our players.

One of the main reasons for Shaker's great success at the net and base line is the fact that the team never stops playing throughout the calendar year. In summer most of the boys play in local and national tournaments. During the winter the whole team practices at least once a week on the numerous indoor courts which are available. This continuous practice keeps Shaker players at a fine playing edge for spring competition in the Cleveland High School League.

Smooth Stroking Shaker Cops State Crown

A new coach, a determined squad, and plenty of practice formed an overpowering combination which, in 1958, brought Shaker its first state golf championship. For an example of the spirit of this team we need only look at their first qualifying meet in early April. With the temperature below freezing, fourteen resolute bays played 18 holes of golf for the right to represent Shaker on the links.

Constant practice paid dividends as the Raiders fielded two complete teams which remained unbeaten all season. First on the list of championships was an easy victory in the Lake Erie League meet. Later that same week seniors Bob Roth, Dale Huges, Dave Jacobson and sophomore Grant Kloppman outdistanced district schoolboy opponents by a margin of twenty strokes. Here, Roth took individual honors in a playoff.

On May 26 this same squad, in a thrilling two-day tourney over Ohio State's "Scarlet Course," annexed the Ohio title with a team total of 645 strokes.

With several members of last year's team returning, the Raider linksmen made another fine showing in this year's tournaments. Second and third-year players included Grant Kloppman, Earl Weiss, Larry Kohn, Dick Leukart, and Marc Greenbaum.

Raider Trackmen Form Powerful Combination

Powered by an exceptional array of relay talent, Shaker's 1958 track squad sprinted to a winning record. Finishing with a single defeat in dual meet competition, Coach Bob Rice's thinclads ranked third in the Lake Erie League meet.

Highlights of the season included Shaker's mastery of Hilltop Meet rivals, University School and Heights High, and the setting of a new school record in the mile relay. With seniors Ed Jeffrey, Sam Driggins, and Bob Piwanka and junior Tom Bergin reeling off speedy 440-yard laps, Shaker turned in a sparkling 3:25.6 for the mile.

In 1959 under Captain Tom Bergin, the tracksters began workouts indoors early in February. Under the impetus of this early start the team developed rapidly. As soon as the weather permitted regular workouts, a larger contingent set to work building Shaker's bid for the L.E.L. crown.

Particularly strong in the hurdles with Ippolito and Balazs, in the sprints with juniors Jeff Winn and Pete Schliewen and the versatile Ippolito, and the discus with musclemen Yoram Gelman and Roger Aaron, the Red Raiders were dangerous in every meet. As in past years the mile relay and long distance runners also contributed their share of points to the Shaker total.

Led by four three-year diamond veterans, Coach Fred Heinlen's 1959 baseball team achieved a 9-7 record. Playing some of the district's toughest teams, including state title contender Euclid, the hard-working Red Raiders won several close games in the late innings.

A real thrill for Shaker fans was senior hurler Tam Lenhart's no-hitter against the Shaw Cardinals. With perfect control and a dancing fast ball, Lenhart overpowered Shaw, 4-0. Two tense, one-run victories over the Heights team also added luster to an exciting season.

In 1959, with several second-and third-year men returning, including Ken Lapine, Harley Kravitz, Bill Rupp, Bow Schneider, Captain Ralph Karlovec, and Roger Klein, the team showed the batting power and defensive ability to play on even terms with any opponent.

Early workouts began immediately after the basketball season with a host of aspiring big leaguers preparing for action in the gym. While Coach Heinlen supervised unique indoor drills, the team rounded into shape for regular spring training on the outdoor diamond.

GIRLS' SPORTS

AN UNUSUAL VIEW OF A TUMBLING CLASS illustrates that "perspective" can be gained not only in the academic classroom and outside activities, but also in active, directed participation of sports.

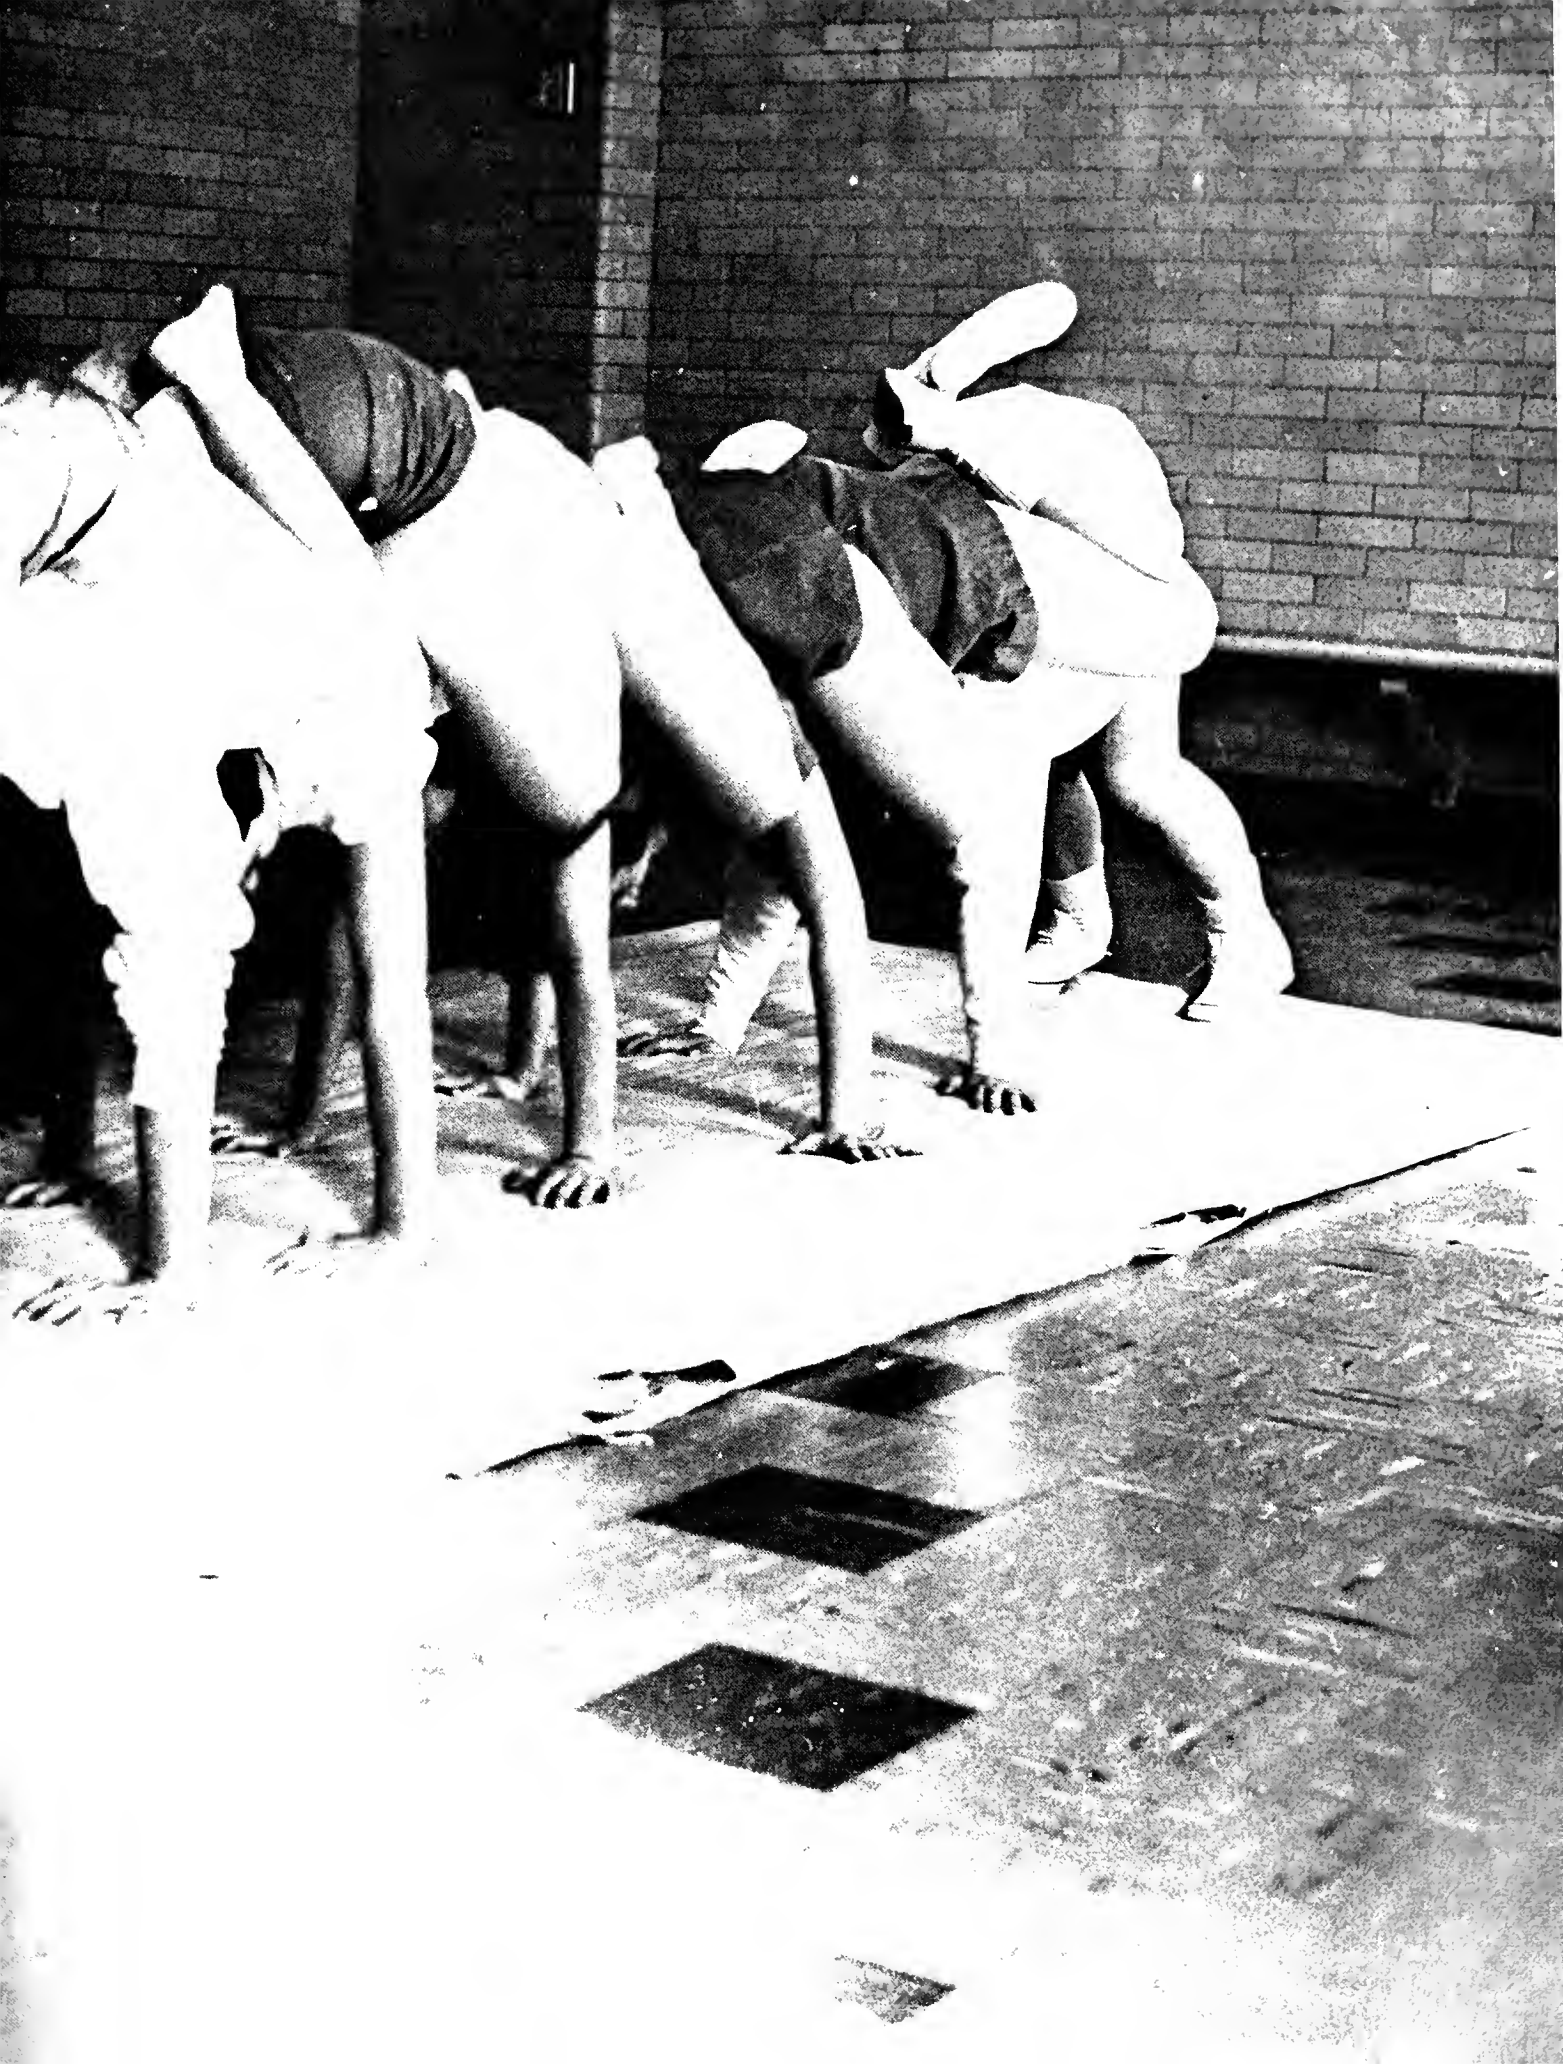

The opportunity for participation is available to any girl who wishes to further her skill, knowledge, sportsmanship, and associations and friendships with others. For, although skill and knowledge of the sport are extremely important on the basketball court or the hockey field, they are by no means the only factors required to win a game. In order to have a winning team, each member must understand and exercise the meaning of the words "sportsmanship," "consideration," and "respect." Through teamwork and team spirit, perhaps more important than the skills themselves, all participants are taught the truth in the old adage, "It is not that you won or lost—but how you played the game."

After the game, when competition yields to companionship, each girl gains the friendship of her opponent. This new friendship develops her personal dimension.

Other than these advantages, physical education creates an opportunity for every student to crystallize concepts of time, space and motion, as well as providing exercise and relaxation from the ordinary world of the classroom.

Sports is not an end in itself—it is only a means, the end being the development of a well-rounded individual.

Between acrobats Mary Kral and Betsy Faragher, tumblers Judy Schaul, Mary Baldwin, Kathy Matey, Mary Lou Moore, Sally Cahen, and Su Stone construct a human pyramid.

Shaker Faculty Furnishes Diversity in Sports

To provide a wide variety in the girls' sports program has always been the intention of Shaker's physical education staff. This year the purpose was fulfilled; sixteen choices of sports ranging from the main sports of hockey, volleyball, and basketball to the less emphasized sports of tennis, tumbling, and fencing were offered to girls of all three classes.

Besides providing for a diversified program, the staff imposed certain minimal requirements: every girl must have taken one unit of dance, one individual sport, and one team sport. Every senior girl must have passed her Red Cross Intermediate Swimming Test before graduation.

Sharcs Parody "That Wonderful Town"

A feat with feet

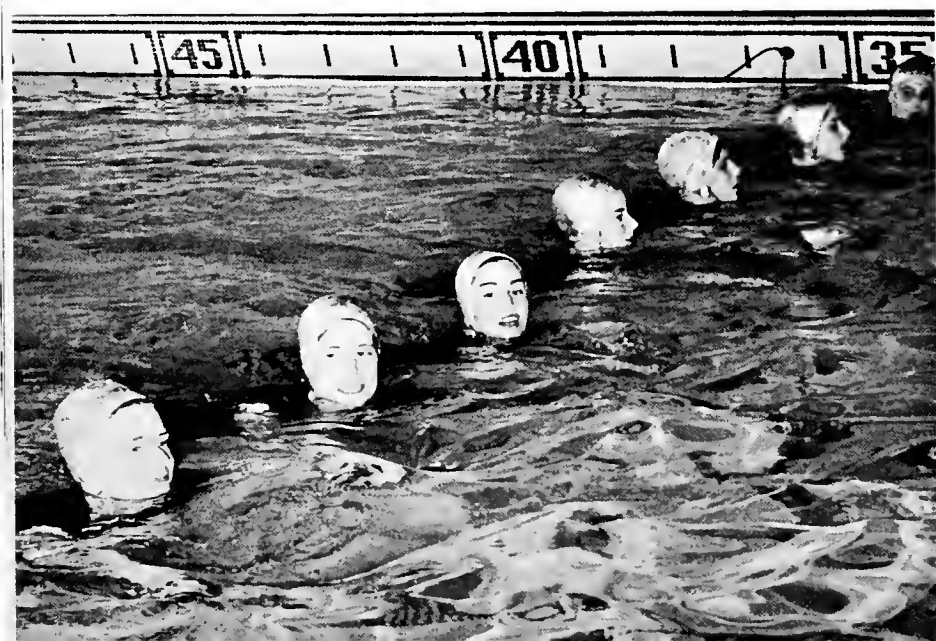

Broadway—Empire State Building—Statue of Liberty—Coney Island—Grand Central Station—all a part of that wonderful town, New York. And all a part of the 1959 Sharcs' Pageant.

The twenty members of the Sharcs' Club saw their year's hard work fulfilled in their depiction of the taurists' New York. To such songs as "The Peter Gunn Theme," "Blow, Gabriel, Blow," "The Man with the Golden Arm," and "I've Got Rhythm," the Sharcs swam their interpretation of the waterfront, Chinatown, Greenwich Village, and Radio City Music Hall.

A clown diving act presented Coney Island as a colorful and raucous park of revelry. Hilary Hartman and Karen Cowan dueted to interpret the relaxation and festivity of a date at Rockefeller Skating Rink. In a solo, President Virginia Inglis presented a concept of night-clubbing in New York.

In contrast to pageants of previous years, in which the numbers were unified by the narration of a story, this year's theme was tied together only by effective lighting, poetry, music, and sound effects.

Team spirit warmed the November weather as the juniors and seniors competed on the hockey field for the hockey interclass championship.

The juniors surpassed the seniors in enthusiasm, as evidenced by the streamers, posters, and propaganda which decked the senior varsity locker room before the big game, erroneously proclaiming a junior victory. However, the seniors outplayed the juniors, for the final score stood 5-0, seniors' favor.

But, more determined than ever, the juniors bounced back to avenge their disgraceful hockey defeat by soundly trouncing the seniors in the volleyball interclass tournament.

Sportsters Focus Aims on All-Star Teams

VOLLEYBALL ALL-STAR TEAM: First: Margaret Buchanan, Char Edwards, Pam Patton, Pat Faragher, Cathy Christie, Mary Miller. Second: Busy Boorse, Mary Baldwin, Sue Getzendanner, Jan Hepple, Harriett Slater, Linda Nocar.

All-star teams in hockey, volleyball, and basketball are chosen at the end of each season on the basis of outstanding skill. These teams are honorary organizations only.

By their outstanding skill in the sport in which they were selected, the members of this year's teams further proved the fact that Shaker is rarely beaten.

Pam Patton focuses on ultimate goal.

ACTIVITIES

EDUKATION AT SHAKER DID NOT END AT 3:30 with the final class bell. Education continued in the club program, which brought diversity of activity as well as diversion from academic worries. Originality and co-operation are stressed in these clubs.

Diversity of individual club dimensions is the theme of Shaker's extracurricular program; each student is able to find a club in which to express his individuality. If he wishes to serve his fellow man directly, or increase his knowledge or merely wishes to recreate his spirit, there is an organization at Shaker to serve his needs.

Those who find fulfillment in serving others may join the Hi-Y or Y-Teen organizations. Those who like to talk—and then act—usually find their way into either the Youth Council on Human Relations or the Junior Council on World Affairs. Others execute their powers to serve the school through such organizations as Student Council and the Booster Force. For those who had special talents to exploit, there were such clubs as Chess Club, Rifle Club, A Cappella, and Drama Production Club.

Many students, whether as officers or members, participate actively in several clubs. Through this program the dimensions of Shaker life are extended to the extracurricular program. On the following pages is provided a synopsis of the program which provides diversion from academic worries and gives broader perspective and depth to the character of its participants.

STUDENT COUNCIL: First: Treasurer Charles Hoover, Treasurer Bob Templeman, Treasurer Barton Weitz, President Lawrence Osborn, Secretary Jeanie Davis, Treasurer Marilyn Loverud, Treasurer Marc Greenbaum. Second: Francine Moot, Charlotte Edwards, Annie Mendelson, Ina Horwitz, Sharon Gan- im, Linda Koeckert, Carolyn Blake, Joan Farster, Joan Horsburgh, Kathy Broderick, Lo- la Ham. Third: Jean Murphy, Nancy Collins, Patty Kelly, Margaret Buchanan, Sue Hard- esty, Nile Duppsdt, Stan Chernet, Ken Lapine, Al Benson, Susan Griswold, Paula Bodwell, John Hopper. Fourth: Charles Brawn, Larry Kahn, Dave Falk, Peter Gibbon, Paul London, Don Lenhart, Sheldon Artz, Ernie Linsay, Dick Johns, Chuck Bailin, Matt Harris.

Leaders of the Student Body

The 1958-59 Student Council, under the guidance of Presi- dent Laurie Osborn, began the fall semester with an abun- dance of eagerness.

One of the first projects undertaken was the Shaker High School Experience Day at Shaker Square on Saturday, Octo- ber 18, 1958, which was sponsored by the Businessmen's As- sociation of Shaker Square. About fifty-five seniors worked as replacements for clerks and managers in some of the stores. A portion of the set wages paid to the students went into the senior class fund.

Later in the fall Student Council representatives from Shaker visited Cleveland Heights for the seventh L.E.L. Student Council Convention.

This year committees worked diligently and successfully. The Civics-Welfare Committee did a superb job in the han- dling of the United Appeal and Christmas Welfare Drives. The Club Committee supervised the club assembly and the ac- tivities of "Know-Your-Club-Week."

From the Executive Board consisting of President Laurie Osborn, Vice President Dick Bell, Secretary Jeanie Davies, and Treasurers Marc Greenbaum, Bart Weitz, Chuck Hoover, Bob Templeman, Marilyn Loverud, came ideas and plans that contributed to the Shaker High School Community.

"Deal me in," says Hoover to Greenbaum.

Demerit Panel

DEMERIT PANEL: First: Al Benson, Kathy Calvin, Dick Bell, Nancy Stark, Dick Leukart, Peggy Kennedy, Tam Webb.

You have just received a small, white slip in homeroom. That sinking feeling in your heart tells you that you have just received a notice from the Demerit Panel. You know that they don't really care whether or not you had a just cause for your misdemeanor. You broke a rule and somebody issued you a demerit. They filled out the slip and sent it to you. That's their job.

If you accumulate five demerits you know that you will be called before the Demerit Panel some Thursday afternoon during the last period. Vice President Dick Bell leads the group of four seniors, Nancy Stark, Peggy Kennedy, Tom Webb, Alon Benson, and two juniors, Dick Leukart and Kathy Calvin. In their conference with you they try to find out how they can help you become a better citizen.

Sometimes their efforts irritate you, but you always know that they have a hard job to do, and that they are always doing their best to improve the Shaker way of life.

Naughty Newmon Naps.

This year the Honor Study Hall policy was altered. Student advisers, who were either members of the Central Committee or students chosen by this organization, supervised the study halls.

The Central Committee, the supervising body of the Honor Study Hall System, consisted this year of seven members, who, guided by Mrs. Brammer, took over the interviews for the Honor Study Hall and gave out penalties to offenders according to the seriousness of the violations.

The five main duties of the Central Committee were as follows: to control and generally supervise the Honor Study Hall, to select student advisers, to admit new members, to eliminate members abusing the Honor Study Hall privilege, and to determine with the help of the Student Council and faculty the future policy of the Honor Study Hall. These principal duties were carried out quite successfully.

Students Relieve Their Tensions at Social Affairs

Full stomachs bring happy faces.

Despite the fact that Shaker's capable Social Director, Miss Nancy Hallister, left at the end of the first semester, the Social Council was able to plan a very full calendar. The year's social activity was set off by the Kick-Off Party. Open houses were held at various times throughout the year; the gyms and the pool were opened for sports, the snack bar for refreshments, and records were played for dancing. The Social Council also sponsored the annual Faculty-Family Christmas Party.

The annual Christmas Dance was easily the highlight of the social season. It featured dancing to the accompaniment of a fifteen-piece band. The dance welcomed back Shaker alumni, in addition to the student body. In place of the traditional F.F.F.F., there was a play, "Spider Island," and an open house. The snack bar, directed by Vice President Frank Christiano, was a faithful addition to the pleasure of Tuesday afternoons, dances, open houses, bake sales, and even some club meetings.

Supervising the social program for the second semester was Mrs. Barbara Preucil.

The Booster force, headed by Dick Bell, had a bigger job than ever before because of this year's increased enrollment. With the halls so crowded, order was difficult to maintain, particularly because seniors, as well as sophomores, insisted on traveling on the wrong stairway. The members of the force used demerits to support their authority. One can see that the Boosters were kept extremely busy.

Boosters selected at the middle of the year were Lois Cowon, Linda Friedman, Alice Friedman, Jean Levendula, Jane Williams, Amy Glickman, Doug Wolfe, and Doug Dolch.

Each period of the day there was a different girl in each dean's office to answer phone calls, deliver messages, file records, and take charge of the office in the dean's absence. These girls gained a great deal of knowledge from this job in meeting and dealing with people every day.

The Shaker Heights High School Marching Band was a familiar sight to all football fans. In the sharp fall afternoons and evenings, the band entertained the crowds at half-time with their precision marching and intricate formations. They were supported by the majorettes and new drum major Chuck Pitcock. This year a special pep band with selective membership was organized. The pep band sparked enthusiasm at the pep rallies.

The band performed at events other than football games, however. Experience Day was brightened by the exuberant music the band played as it marched around Shaker Square.

To complete the marching season, the band participated in the annual Memorial Day Parade.

After football season the character of the band changed as it began practicing for its concert season. The highlight was, of course, the annual Spring Instrumental Concert. The money from the ticket sale went into the uniform fund. The band with its one hundred and twenty members climaxed its year with the traditional band picnic held in the late spring.

The A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Mr. Reynold Ellis, met every morning during the second period.

At Christmas time the Choir sang at Central National Bank, Shaker Square, and Public Square. They also performed at the Christmas assembly held for the student body, and sang Handel's Messiah at the annual Christmas Alumni Concert.

In the spring, the Choir performed with the other five Lake Erie League high schools in the annual L.E.L. Festival which was held this year at Euclid. On May 8 and 9, the Broadway musical Guys and Dolls was given. The last performance of the year by the A Cappella Choir was at the seniors' graduation ceremony. This completed a successful year.

Barry Gordon as Nathan Detroit, Pat Murphy as Adelaide, Jacki Dostal as Sarah Brown, and Chris von Baeyer as Sky Mastersan were chosen as leads for Guys and Dolls.

Both the Singers Club and the Glee Club are girls' singing organizations under the direction of Mr. Reynold Ellis. Both clubs rehearsed ardously in the Choir Room and sang in the Christmas assembly. However, they are two distinct organizations. Only sophomore girls are allowed to join the Glee Club, but many go on to join the Singers Club as juniors and seniors.

The Singers Club joined A Coppello Choir and guest soloists in an inspiring performance of Handel's Messiah.

Junior Council Debates World Issues

Officers plan for a better tomorrow.

Youth Council on Human Relations observed, discussed, and tried to understand the peoples and problems of the world. This year its program was concerned mainly with two subjects. The first was the segregation issue, highlighted by two films and a talk by Mr. Heman Sweatt from the N. A. A. C. P. The second phase dealt with religion. Speakers were invited to acquaint the club members with the main religions of the world. Many misconceptions were cleared away in tours of various houses of worship. The club also visited racial districts and slum areas in Cleveland. A Christmas party was held in the East End Neighborhood House with food and gifts for all the children. January brought the annual Human Relations Conference.

Youth Council Discusses Segregation and Religion

Mr. Heman Sweatt discusses the problem of segregation.

A club that catered to the person who likes to argue was the Junior Council on World Affairs. Monthly meetings frequently consisted of heated debates on the big economic and political world problems. A lively discussion with a new angle was held on the Berlin crisis this year. It was approached from the Communist point of view.

An important event was the mock United Nations meeting at Lakewood High School in March. Each school tried to present the opinions and policies of a particular country in debates and discussions like those held in the U. N. building in New York.

The two luckiest club members were those chosen for the club-sponsored trips to New York and Washington, D. C. There they had the experience of seeing government in action.

An Expression of Student Opinion

SHAKERITE: First: Lorry Kohn, Sue Bloamenthal, Nancy Dixon, Ina Harwitz, Karen Bass, Horriet Luria, Jaon Ludwig, Peggi Lewin, Don Jonos. Second: John Fishel, Barbara Winger, Roselyn Friedman, Kathi Colvin, Jill Lieder, Linda Blondis, Janet Green, Irene Parker, Kathy Matey, Ronnie Epstein. Third: Glenn Colvin, Merry Brown, Susan Haskell, Judy Hyman, Janet Walfe, Nancy Stork, Diane Kewley, Robert Nolan, David Neustadt, Pete Giggon. Fourth: Stan Ornstein, Ron Kulberg, Tony Holmes, Jack Dalin, Dove Stauffer, Tom Laronge, Don Stern, Stuart Hirsch, Jim Friedman.

Furious rushes to beat the deadline characterized the activity in Room 100, the Shakerite office. Experienced editors directed the noisy but efficient hurly-burly, and confused cub reporters learned what they could about newspaper technique.

The newspaper they produced as an "expression of student opinion" featured sparkling columns of class gossip, the latest events in the world of sports, and provocative letters to the editor. With the assistance of the Cleveland Press, the Shakerite was also able to obtain interviews with famous persons visiting Cleveland. Shakerites were thus pleasantly surprised by columns about Red Grange and Natalie Wood.

Undoubtedly the issue that caused the most excitement among its readers was the annual April Fool's issue, where everything was turned topsy-turvy to provide chuckles for the readers. Seniors also treasured the graduation issue because it contained the directory of senior students—and because it was the last issue of their senior year.

The Gristmill—A View With Perspective

GRISTMILL: First: Rannie Rath, Diane Mapes, Barb McCrackin, Barbie Tatelbaum, Jayce Atlesan, Mary Restifa. Second: Ken Lapine, Marcia Harak, Paula Badwell, Jeff Cole, Myra Newman, Barb Brattin, Dan Krause. Third: Dick Desberg, Roger Goldstein, Sue Griswald, Carol Crawley, Eric Carsan, Nancy Stark, Barbara Margulis, Jim Friedman, Dave Krause.

"The Grimbug is watching you!" With this rather grim warning, the 1958-59 Gristmill staff began the task of recording the events of the school year. The Gristmill writers tried to be everywhere to hear everything said and to take pictures of everything done.

This year's group of earnest searchers was guided by sponsor Mr. George Starr and Editor-in-Chief Jeff Cole. The staff met every afternoon during the fifth period in Room 306. Each editor was responsible for a section of the yearbook, but, because of the amount of work that had to be done, each section was really a co-operative effort.

This year the adventurous staff also sponsored and published a literary magazine which served as an outlet for student original writing.

Deadline Dilemma

Margie Matsan masters mobiles—or is it vice-versa?

A more positive policy stiffened the backbone of the Y-Teen Club this year. The emphasis was on quality, not quantity, in membership. A record of each individual member's participation was kept to encourage an even distribution of responsibility. Attendance was carefully checked and the requirements followed strictly to eliminate the uninterested.

The club's activities were channeled in one direction—service. Social meetings were almost eliminated, leaving only the officers' initiation in the fall, the combined meeting at mid-year, and the style show in the spring. The Combined Board, sponsored by Miss Rose Bonnoian, functioned only as co-ordinating body. Its two officers, Chairman Susan Griswald and Secretary Sue Salay, were elected from the club at large, rather than from the Board itself, as it was done before.

Each chapter was devoted to individual service projects, and the results were promising. At Christmas, the seniors spent an afternoon in the caking room, baking cookies for the ladies in a home for the aged. They also held a party for the children at the Carey Day Nursery. The sophomores, at Christmas, made mobiles for hospitals. Baskets were made and filled with food for underprivileged families at Thanksgiving by the juniors. Another important aspect of the club's activities was the participation of some of its members in the annual mid-winter conference, a meeting of all the Y-Teeners of Cleveland.

Every Wednesday evening the members of all three chapters gathered together to begin their meeting in a spirit of devotion led by one of the student members. Combined meetings often consisted of speeches by guest lecturers, movies, sang-fests, and discussions of the business common to all three chapters.

The three chapters worked together as a unit to sponsor the annual Hi-Y Fall Ball to raise funds for their service projects. One of their services to the community consisted in setting up the blood-mobile twice a month at Mareland School. Their participation in the Y M C A World Service Project was made possible by another service project, the distribution of League of Women Voters pamphlets by members of the Junior Chapter.

Seniors were the busiest Hi-Y members, but they also had the privilege of having the third floor all to themselves. Known as the "Senior Room," it featured such accessories as ping-pong tables and a television set. The seniors earned this luxury by sponsoring the All-School Skate and a Christmas party for underprivileged children. The sophomores aided by serving at the Christmas party.

Through a constant tournament, the eight best players in the Chess Club, sponsored by Mr. Halzhauser, were chosen for the chess team. Shaker competed with six other high schools, among them Cleveland Heights and John Adams, for the league championship and trophy. Shaker has won for the last two years in a row.

This year there were several feminine members of the Chess Club, breaking a long and defested tradition.

FRENCH CLUB OFFICERS: Treasurer Ja Ann Gradin, Social Chairman Marcie Faulb, President Carol Saffen, Secretary Merry Brawn, Vice President Myra Newman.

The French Club, operating under the slogan "practice makes perfect" gave experience to all its members; French was the only language allowed at the meetings. This could explain the silence among the girls while the meeting was in progress. To start the year a French movie was shown. Later some of the members staged a puppet show, all in French. At the Christmas party they sang French carols and played "loterie" (Bingo). Entertainment was provided by the girls' sextet. President Carol Saffen attended a French Club conference in the fall.

The main activities of the Science Club were monthly meetings, field trips, and the annual picnic. Mr. Skip Dodson from Cose spoke on "Rocketry and Earth Satellites." Mr. R. C. Clark from the Ohio Bell Telephone Company spoke on "The Solar Battery" and demonstrated his pieces of equipment.

Field trips to representative industries and research centers were planned, including the County Morgue, the Republic Steel Company, the National Aeronautical Space Administration, and the Warrensville Sohio Laboratories.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA OFFICERS: Secretary Ellen Fine, President Sherry Friedman, Treasurer Susan Haskell, Vice President Sheila Nathanson.

One hundred and fifteen girls planning careers as future teachers of America were exposed to the profession in the meetings of the Future Teachers of America Club. Guest speakers from specific branches of teaching such as speech therapy highlighted the programs. Also observers went to Onaway Elementary School this spring. The club worked in close association with the District Future Teachers of America, which includes all schools in this area. Four members from the Shaker club attended a meeting of all Future Teachers of America at Western Reserve University early this fall.

Beginners to Experts

Perhaps you have always wanted to learn how to play bridge, but have never had the courage to ask anyone to teach you. You probably joined the Bridge Club. You soon found out that bridge is a fascinating game and not really difficult—when you have someone like club sponsor Mr. French to help you bid and play!

Every Tuesday night you had the opportunity to play bridge with the other members. By the end of the year you were able to play bridge fairly well. You had added new dimension to your recreational resources.

The Boys' Bowling Club, under the direction of Mr. Tobasco as teacher sponsor, met every Monday afternoon at 4:00 at Kinsman-Lee Lanes. Altogether the league met for about twenty-five weeks, commencing shortly after school opened and ending shortly after spring vacation.

At Thanksgiving, the Kinsman-Lee establishment gave a turkey to the boy who bowled the most pins over his average that week. Horvey Kumin, a member of the Senior Class, won the contest, and with it the prize.

Ready, Aim, Fire!

RIFLE CLUB: First: Elliott Bassichis, Jane Williams, Barbara Majaras, Judie Abrams, Mary Ja Malaney, Peggi Lewin, Mary Ann Clezie, Judy Greenlee, Marcia Brawn. Second: Carla Siegenthaler, Carol Tarda, Ralph Loveman, Stu Kelley, Howard DeSure, John Happer, Bob Smith, Dick Edwards. Third: David Mapes, Bob Huling, Bill Green, Dave Pizzini, Launny Steffens, Bill McGearge, Tom Friedlander, Peter Sprague.

Previous experience not necessary—the object of the Rifle Club is to teach the uninitiated how to use a rifle and how to enjoy using it. With practice and the desire to learn, any member could progress along a series of goals from beginner to expert.

The group was well organized by the sole officer, Treasurer Bob Smith. Strangely enough, over half of the members were girls. This would seem to indicate that perhaps you can get a man with a gun.

Here's shooting at you.

On Stage—Behind the Scenes

"Get out of my house!" says Jill to Kay.

Members of the Drama Production Club may earn points for Thespian membership by helping behind the scenes for school productions, reading plays, or organizing the cage. Members were encouraged to write an original play or to present one. The art of make-up for both stage and practical use was demonstrated. A speaker was invited from the Play-house. In the spring a group of three one-act plays was presented.

Sheila Rubenstein demonstrates the fine points of make-up on Micki Bloomfield.

Troupe 815 represented Shaker in the National Thespian Society. Its avowed purpose was to stimulate interest in all the dramatic arts. To do this, the Thespians sponsored the production of Spider Island in the spring and performed key jobs in all the school productions.

THESPIANS: First: Social Chairman Sunny Moss, Secretary Bunny Lang, President Eric Carson, Vice President Alarie Boyle, Treasurer Pete Brown. Second: Ina Harwitz, Joyce Caplan, Sandy R. Katz, Karen Salaway, Carol Salaway, Kaye Harwitz, Jean Levendula, Marilyn Lee. Third: Jaan Ludwig, Dotty McKee, Sheila Fraigun, Merry Brown, Barb Margulis, Barb Brattin, Dan Goldhamer, Elna Green. Fourth: Jim Procker, Bill Hess, Bernie Gershen, Dave Pizzini, David Griffiths, Rager Skalnik, Dick Edwards, Jerry Goldstein.

You're on the Air

P. A. ANNOUNCERS: First: Harriet Luria, Bonnie Long, Sondy L. Katz, Joan Ludwig, Barb Nicola, Nancy Collins, Sheila Kaplan, Peggy Kennedy. Second: Carol Crowley, Al Benson, Roger Skolnik, Don Rice, Matt Hatchodorian, Carol Tardo. Third: Janet Wolfe, Dave Spott, Bill Linas, Dick Bell, Yoram Gelman, John Leibacher, Eric Carson, Alarie Boyle.

You are a boy who is mechanically minded. You have an important job. It is necessary for you to be familiar with the latest electrical and sound equipment. Every morning you insure the success of homeroom announcements. Assemblies, pep rallies, large club meetings, and other school events click like clockwork when you are there. Students often wonder who it is that makes the last minutes of the schoolday easy to bear by interrupting with special announcements. You're a P. A. Technician. You can tell them you do.

Your announcers for this morning have been Nancy Collins and John Leibacher.

You are one of the people responsible for the voice in the box which tells Shakerites what's happening around the school. At ten after eight you wander into room 129, trying to rub the sleep from your eyes with one hand and the breakfast egg from your mouth with the other hand. You read the mimeographed morning announcements through a few times with Mr. Danford checking you for "jist's" and "hunderd's." As a senior chosen in special auditions, you belittle the P. A. Technicians, who always seem to outnumber you four to one, and you try to arrange to read the juiciest news items yourself.

P. A. TECHNICIANS: First: Jules Altshuler, Bill Hess, Yale Mandel, Michael Lapides, Roger Skolnik, Jim Choney, Harvey Laidman. Second: Dick Abrams, Joseph Geraci, Bernie Gershen, Chris Carlin, John Schlendorf, Harris Rothenberg, Larry Levit, David Davidson.

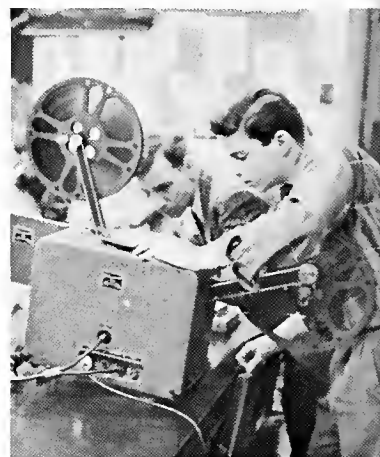

"Who pulled out the plug?" asks Jim Chaney.

Projection Crew Brings Diversion to Classes

PROJECTION CREW: First: Dick Show, John Ulrich, Jim Pracker, Frank Yunger, Paul King, Howard DeSure. Second: Dan Lavinger, Maury Greenstein, Skip Kelley, Bob Seckel, Martin Shaak, Larry Levit, Harris Rothenberg.

Lights, Camera—Whoops!

Towards the middle of the year your life began to take on a certain pattern. In the morning you would usually go up to Room 304 to ask Mr. French who needed a projector during the day. Every Monday you could count on running Biology films, while on Tuesday you worked in the Small Auditorium during American History movies. American Problems' classes delighted in the movies you showed them on Thursdays. Your life took on a certain pattern, but it never became boring. If it had, you would not have given up your study hall to work in Projection Crew.

Stage Crew Provides Dramatic Framework

STAGE CREW: First: Jerry Goldstein, Bonnie Long, Barb Brattin, Bob Bendis. Second: Marc Konvisser, Bill Schonberg, Dick Skoll, Ken Sunshine, Tom Webb. Third: Doug Pope, Pete Shelton, Dave Pizzini, Ken Frankel, Pete Brown.

You must like working on the Stage Crew, because during the production of Spider Island, Mister Roberts, and Guys and Dolls you worked every day during your study halls and after school. You were responsible for building all the sets, changing the scenery between acts, pulling the curtain, and operating the complex light panel. You created the atmosphere in which the actors moved on stage. And then, after the play was over, you took the set apart and restored the stage to its original noncommittal appearance.

Hess and Skolnik prepare for curtain time.

Pre-Med Club Builds a More Healthful Tomorrow

PRE-MED CLUB: Vice President Rick Galdstein, President Glenn Calvin, Secretary Carol Jean Finneburgh, Treasurer Bruce Wolf. First: George Porter, Gerald Kumin, Jerame Weiskopf, Joel Stein, Bruce Dundan, Bob Grass, Jay Eisenberg, Warren Cahn, Mike Gerber, Ari Newman. Second: Robert Webber, Phillip Weiss, Margy Weissman, Paula Kline, Sue Haskell, Gayle Henkin, Glaria Heller, Marilyn Ganan, Jean Herzegh, Susan Kenney, Kathy Cavan. Third: Nancy Carter, Sue Kiehne, Sue Carl, Cindy Winzeler, Lisa Hauk, Kathy Telepak, Wendy Siman, Jim Beckley, Karen Baker, Ellen Sinks, Paul Reebeel. Fourth: Dave Krause, Ann Tadd, Bob Hasler, John Osmond, Jim Zucker, Harry Eisengrein, Dan Rice, Jani Breuer, Alan Kagan, Tom Mann, Dan Stanford, Dan Lenhart.

Students interested in medical careers joined the Pre-Med Club under the leadership of President Glenn Calvin. The numerous possible fields of study and work in medicine were presented to the members in a series of lectures and trips to hospitals.

With the aim of stimulating the members to conduct research projects, students who had already done so presented their results; Don Stern discussed his biology project, the effects of certain drugs on Siamese fighting fish. A number of doctors, some of them former members, spoke about their various fields. Dr. William D. Holden, professor of surgery at Western Reserve, brought a film of an actual operation. Dr. Lewis Miller, a doctor of internal medicine at Mt. Sinai and Doctors Hospitals spoke of the medical profession in general. The field of medical technology was explored in trips to the University Hospitals, the Health Museum, and Mt. Sinai Hospital. A rapidly growing group, the Pre-Med Club is actively achieving its purpose.

Guest speaker Dr. Lewis presents his views.

PRE-MED CLUB: First: Jill Laeb, Anita Gilbert, Sharan Feldman, Joyce Garfinkel, Marjorie Brown, Jean Pinter, Sue Sanders, Philippa Hughes, Linda Case, Joyce Altesan, Maris Kushner. Second: Sherry Needham, Rhoda Bunkin, Linda Stone, Ja Ann Gradin, Leslie Ulevitch, Jill Gersan, Babbie Appleman, Tina Aaranson, Cynthia Meyer, Ellen Sinks. Third: Sheila Gilbert, Betty Kain, Mary Slavin, Babs Maier, Kathi Calvin, Jayce Hemmans, Jane Weckesser, Anne Morris, Margaret Little, Anne Bramley, Fran Wahl. Fourth: Lyn Jacob, Penny Wallack, Ruthie Deutsch, Adrienne Elman, Mary Waldrip, Judy Green, Marga Tuttle, Lynn Past, Sherry Harwitz, Jane Krug, Kerry Arday.

SHAKERITES DID NOT CONFINE THEIR EDUCATION to the high school, but tried to extend their knowledge by going out into the homes and shops of the Shaker community. Their experiences constituted an extension of the dimensions of Shakerites' lives.

Many students found places to work after school in Shaker stores and shops. And—seniors participated in the Experience Day program in October—. Under the sponsorship of the Shaker Square Businessmen's Association, these students worked as sales personnel in the various Shaker Square business establishments. It was one of the most successful ventures of the Senior Class, and an invigorating experience for everyone who participated.

However, work experience was not the only connection between Shaker students and the merchants whose ads appear on the following pages. In these stores Shakerites saw the economic products of the world and gained some understanding of the countries that produced them. Students learned economic value through trial-and-error-and-better-judgement-next-time buying.

Moreover, an excursion into the world of business was always an exciting expedition. There was the appealing variety of actual shopping and there was the glamor of traveling on the Rapid Transit System, which links the major shopping centers.

ALL OUT FOR SHAKER SQUARE!

Red--orange--green--go. To the accompaniment of a series of sharp clicks, the train crawled slowly out from the black tunnel into the rain-flecked night. In the valley the brawny Republic Steel plant disgorged great glowing emulous cinders into the sky. It was a wonderfully stormy night, just enough of a conflict with nature to be exciting to you, sitting warmly secure in the well-lit rapid.

It pulled forward more swiftly, now running between lines of stationary box cars, now winding out to the plateau before the valley. The Grand Canyon Line, Southern Pacific, El Capitan, Route of the Phoebe Snow! Strange romantic names that promised much of adventure and travel. Perhaps it will continue forever into the night like an enchanted coach! So sit very close to the window, peer anxiously into the darkness. Surely that is something new, you have never seen that before, have you?--no--yes. It is, after all, only a familiar landmark transmuted by night's magic.

Next Shaker Square in its sturdy splendor and dignity rises ahead. A stop. A wait. And then off into the night.

KINSMAN STOP NEXT!

With a long singing rumble the Rapid descended into the valley. Soon now it would reach the Kinsman stop. Time to pick up your notebook and walk cautiously to the back doors.

You get off now and climb up the two flights of aged wooden steps to the street. A blaring hot sun hurls its streaming rays against the street and the store windows to dazzle humanity. With relief you look across the street at Moreland School and the Library, a haven of green shade in a world of garishly sun-lit buildings.

Work in the Library for a few hours, hoping the librarian won't realize you're a high school student and send you down to the basement. Fill a few pages with notes and, maybe, decide that you deserve a soda for your efforts. Where to go? Better to go to Miller's. Better chance of seeing her there. Take your time finishing the soda. Then walk back in the hot afternoon to the Rapid. School has really started.

THE END OF THE LINE

School is over now. You always said you would be glad, but, as you walk through the parking lot at Van Aken Center, you feel a little depressed. The day is quickly descending into a cool and austere twilight, and yours is a twilight emotion.

You look back at the brightly-lit theater. You remember times you went there with her, times of pleasure, times of joy. You remember, and you smile wistfully. Those times are now gone. They were good, but both you and the time have changed.

Cross Van Aken quickly now, go to the end of the line. The deserted cars, although they preserve some of the romance of travel, stand aloof in solemn, regimented order. This is the end of high school. Gone is the oppression of routine, but also gone is the security. You must make your own world now.

The rapid tracks extend reassuringly into the night like twin threads of history unwound from the spool of truth. Here comes the rapid now. You are as prepared as any man who has ever been. Board it with confidence and quiet joy.

The

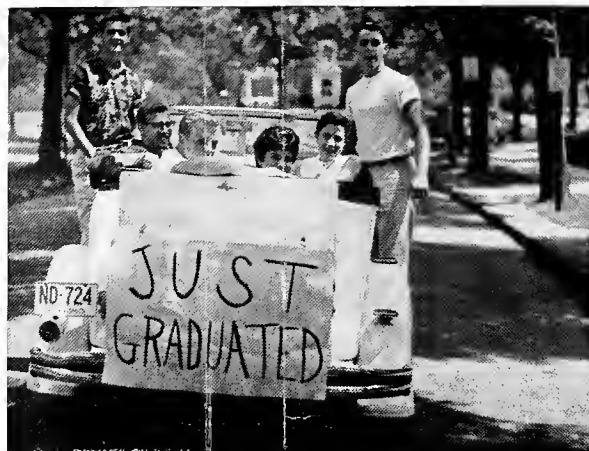

IN THE BEGINNING THERE WAS SPRING; in the Spring there is beginning . . . there is end.

SPRING IS THE BEGINNING, for the coming of Spring at Shaker heralds the revival of many memorable events. To same, her advent brought tense moments and significant decisions—cooperative tests, College Boards for juniors, college acceptances, and final exams. To others, Spring was characterized by new dimensions in outstanding and exciting entertainment. Months of diligent practice brought rewarding fulfillment in the superb and much-applauded Choir and Drama Production Guys and Dolls. The Shores Pageant, that refreshing, splashy review "The New York Times," added the romance of Broadway to Spring at Shaker.

Enriching and enlivening Shaker's Spring assembly program were the ringing rhythms of the Ohio State University Glee Club. And with the premier of Spring 1959 come the debut of the precedent-setting Student Council documentary film on school life, and the unveiling of new fashions with a flair at the Y-Teen style show.

But while Seniors anxiously counted the days (five extra ones, too) until graduation, underclassmen prepared for next year by electing their class officers, and choosing new members for both the Demerit Panel and the Central Committee.

SPRING, PARADOXICALLY, IS ALSO THE END—To Seniors it marks the climax of three well-spent years at Shaker. Yet thoughts of Spring at Shaker 1959 shall never end, but shall be with all Shakerites always.

In Spring a young man's fancy is turned to . . .

A state champion! District qualifiers! The Lakewood bell remains in the halls of Shaker as we once again outpointed Lakewood. Three of the four spring teams sent members to the state tournament. Sophomore Warren Daane and Senior Al Ganim represented Shaker in tennis and reached the semifinals at state, while Roger Aaron, top in the district, and Yoram Gelman made a fine bid for track and field honors.

A superb golf team breezed by other qualifiers to emerge as state champs for the second straight year. With three of the four members of the team juniors, it appears that Shaker may make it three in a row next year. The baseball team, off to an unfortunate start and never quite recovering, compiled a below par record. A timely victory over Lakewood, however, gave Shaker the needed points to maintain the cherished bell.

As we tie the knot on the 1959 sports' package, we look with much anticipation toward the future for a new bundle of memorable events and outstanding achievements.

The Shakerite

An expression of student opinion

Anderson and Rosenberg Receive Citizenship Trophies

Judith Anderson and John Rosenberg have been selected by the seniors of Shaker Heights High School as Honor Citizens of the class of '52.

Both have earned gold keys for superior scholarship earlier this year, and both have served their classmates in many capacities in such a way as to meet the warm approval of students and faculty.

Jeffrey and Caldwell Total 15 Entrances At Local May Show

The Shaker High School faculty is well represented in this year's Annual Exhibition of Cleveland Arts and Crafts, generally known as the May Show. Mr. Jeffrey entered twenty pieces of which nine were accepted. He was awarded first prize in Enamels for a group of nine, and third prize in Jewelry for a group of eight enamel brooches.

The Cleveland Art Association bought the ebony and cloisonne cross by Mr. Jeffrey and presented it to the Art Museum for its permanent collection.

Mr. Caldwell received second prize in Jewelry for a group consisting of a silver pin, a set of silver and enamel mobile earrings, and a silver and enamel pendant. Six out of ten of his entries were accepted.

Their work will be in the museum through June 8.

Uncle Bus Recovering

School is almost out, the year seems almost completed, and yet something has been missing. Things that used to just happen, now have six or eight people shoving behind them. More and more people are realizing just how much Shaker depends on "Uncle Bus" Thraillkill.

The first week-end in May, Mr. Thraillkill, with the official title of Director of Student Activities, developed a heart condition and was taken to Lakeside Hospital.

Uncle Bus has been with Shaker High School thirty years. When he first came to Shaker the high school was in the present junior high Judith's extra-curricular activities have been in the fields of music, sports and class organizations. She swims, plays hockey, basketball, and volleyball. She has been a member of the Varsity and All-Star hockey and volleyball teams, and an officer in Shakes and Girls' Leaders. Because of her many varied skills, she was chosen to be Girls' Sports Editor of the year book.

In her homeroom, she has served as representative or alternate in the student council for three years. Sophomore social chairman, junior class secretary, secretary of the Central Committee of Honor Study Hall this year—these officers have kept her busy but seemingly unflurried. Somewhere she has found time to take piano lessons and sing in A Cappella, to baby-sit and to work in summer camp as a counselor for small girls.

Judy has been accepted at Denison University; at present she plans to go into elementary school teaching after college. For three years "Dutch" has been president of his homeroom, and a member of Hi-Y for an equal time—first as president of the sophomores, then as vice-president of the combined groups. His senior year, he has been class president, and a member of the Central Committee, a member of Student Council and co-chairman of the social advisory committee.

Along with this, he has carried a full athletic program: intra-mural and varsity wrestling, varsity basketball and football; he was co-captain of the football team. "Dutch" is going to Dartmouth, and plans to be a doctor. Other seniors nominated for this honor were Janet Price, Bertha Samas, Steve Alfred and Greg Holmes.

building and he taught all the social studies courses. Uncle Bus's future plans are as yet uncertain. Mr. Rupp expressed what all of us feel like saying: "It is the sincere wish and hope of all the students, faculty and all Mr. Thraillkill's many friends that his recovery will be rapid and complete."

220 Seniors Leave Shaker On June Sixth

On June sixth at 8:00 in the large auditorium, two hundred and twenty graduating seniors will receive their diplomas and say their final farewell to Shaker. At the commencement presided over by William Slade Jr., superintendent of schools, Dr. Paul Weaver, president of Lake Erie College at Painesville, Ohio, will give the farewell address to the graduating class. Dr. C. Waymon Parsons, minister of Heights Christian Church, will give the invocation and benediction. Mr. Russell H. Rupp, principal, will present the graduating class of June, 1952, to Mrs. F. A. Downes, of the Shaker Heights Board of Education, who will present the diplomas.

The choir will sing two songs, "Only Begotten Son" by Gretchen-inoff and "Nightingale" by Tschankowsky. The processionals, "Pomp and Circumstance" by Sir Edward Elgar, and recessional "Marche Francaise" by C. Saint-Saens, will be played by the school band.

After the commencement ceremonies there will be a reception in the court for all graduates, their parents and friends.

'Stairway to the Stars' Theme Of Saturday Night's Dance

Shakerites! How many times have you looked up into the evening sky and wished you could be transported into the velvety blackness and be surrounded by the millions of twinkling stars. Well, Saturday night, May 31, gives you a chance to do just that. The Starlight Stomp held annually in the parking lot (weather permitting) has been entitled "Stairway to the Stars" and will be complete even to a milky way. Yes, refreshments are taking the form of star shaped cookies and huge pitchers of ice cold milk. In addition "heavenly" music will be provided by Les Elgin and his band from 8:00 to 12:00.

The dance is being planned by next year's Student Council officers. Supervising all of the arrangements is Howie Nudelman. Assisting him as heads of the various committees are Earl Biederman, Publicity; Heather McGill, Decorations; Bob Ramsdell and Pat Bidle, Tickets and Finance; Polly Sobibach, Refreshments; Peggy Johns, Invitations; and Jim Munch, Clean-up.

On behalf of all the officers, Howie says, "We hope that this dance will show the fine school spirit expected next year." Incidentally, the next time you see a star, be sure to make a little wish that it will be twinkling up there along with its friend the moon to make Saturday night a really heavenly evening.

Student Council Buys Two Flags

Two new school flags have been purchased by the student council. One of these was presented to the school today in the Honor Day assembly. This flag, measuring six feet by four and a half feet, will be used on the auditorium stage. The other, five feet by three feet, will be used on the football field.

The flags are identical. They are two-faced in red and white with the school seal, designed by Huck Finn, as the center. Mr. Jeffrey designed the flags and Mrs. Marlowe supervised the selection of material.

Seniors Awarded Many Scholarships

Many of us here at Shaker have applied for and received scholarships to various colleges this year.

Tempest Lowry will go to Princeton on a scholarship. Greg Holmes has a scholarship to Rutgers. Both Dick Carney and Ted Reinbrecht won grants to Lehigh, while Elliot Schlang has decided on Yale University. Hod Rowan has a scholarship to Yale, where he'll really start getting those white bucks off his dirty. Bruce Meyers is accepting a place in the entering class at Dartmouth. Stuart Zolten has an honor scholarship to Wash College, but whether or not he goes there is still a mystery. Neil Chatterton went down to Case not long ago, and came away with top honor in their competitive scholarship contest.

Not to be outdone by the boys, the girls have garnered many awards: Janet Price will go to Pennsylvania State, and Gratia Parsons and Carol Barr will go to Bethany. Carol's scholarship came after competitive exams. Sue McClelland has a trustee scholarship to Mills College in California, while Betty Jane Richards has one to Cleveland College here in the city. Myrna Papurt has received the Halle Science award to the Jackson Research School.

Gristmill Dedicated!

In one of the tense moments of the Honor Day Assembly, it was announced that the Gristmill for 1952 had been dedicated to Mr. Frederick David of the Mathematics Department. Congratulations, Mr. David!

This morning, the members of the Central Committee for next year were presented. They are Lois Jaskulek, Steve Lampl, Dick Brandes, Roger Samet, Eileen Flaherty, and Nancy Whanger.

1952 Senior Class Bows Out

The 1952 senior class bid farewell to their schoolmates in the Honor Day assembly this afternoon. Dutch Rosenberger, president of the class, delivered the customary farewell speech, at the close of which, Mr. Rupp accepted the gift of the class to the school. Steve Alfred led installation of new Student Council officers and pianists Burnis Weston and Elwood Smith played.

1953 Gristmill Staff

While Shakerites have been waiting for their Gristmills to be distributed, the staff for the coming year has been announced. From left to right in the above picture are Bill Freund, appointments editor; Jack Goodman, boys' sports; Harry Lehman, advertising manager; Joan Groom, assistant art editor; Pat Drechsel, editor-in-chief; Judy Sturgis, theme and rewrite; Nancy Whanger, club and class editor; Joan Blanca, girls' sports; Janice Armstrong, assistant art editor; Jane McLaughlin, theme and rewrite; Lillian Racz, senior editor. Absent from the picture are Rodger Samet, business editor; Jerry Adlin, art editor; Lois Leatherman, club and class editor.

Schlang Guest of UN on Trip to New York, Washington

During the first week of April, I was given the opportunity to visit, along with other senior boys and girls of Greater Cleveland, many outstanding spots of governmental interest in New York and Washington. The trip, which had as its highlight the visit to the United Nations Headquarters and the State Department, was sponsored by the Grand Central World Affairs. We arrived on a Thursday morning at Grand Central Station with sagging stockings and crushed neckties after an all-night train ride. After a short "brush-up" and touring period we were split up into groups of seven; our group's first stop was at the Israeli Embassy. Here Mr. Zeindner, Israeli delegate to the UN, spoke in regard to Russia, saying that "the dog that barks does not also bite!"

We had the unexpected privilege of having lunch in the Delegates' Dining Room in the UN, where we saw Ralph Bunche, Nobel Prize winner, and the Prime Minister of Sweden.

Our chaperones decided that a cosmopolitan dinner would be quite exciting for their lecture-worn protégés, so we were hurried off to eat Indian curry and rose petal tea at the internationally-famous Rajah Restaurant. That night we went to Radio City Music Hall to see "Singing in the Rain," the special Easter pageant, and the Rockettes.

The next morning we visited the United States Delegation where we spoke with Ambassador Warren Austin. That afternoon we were given the opportunity to sit in on the first Security Council meeting in its new building. We saw Trygve Lie, Malik, Jebb, and other world leaders.

That evening we left New York for Washington. The next morning we were taken to the beautiful new State Department where we heard three lectures concerning the structure of the State Department, formulation of foreign policy, and the Point Four Program. After lunch I was invited to the spacious Iranian Embassy for tea where I sampled the Persian delicacy, shirini pastry.

The last night of the trip was dedicated solely for our pleasure. After having dinner at a Chinese restaurant, we were given a big farewell party at the hotel. Sunday we arose at an early hour and left the city of cherry blossoms and political excitement after having spent an hour sight-seeing.

Elliott Schlang

Demerit Council

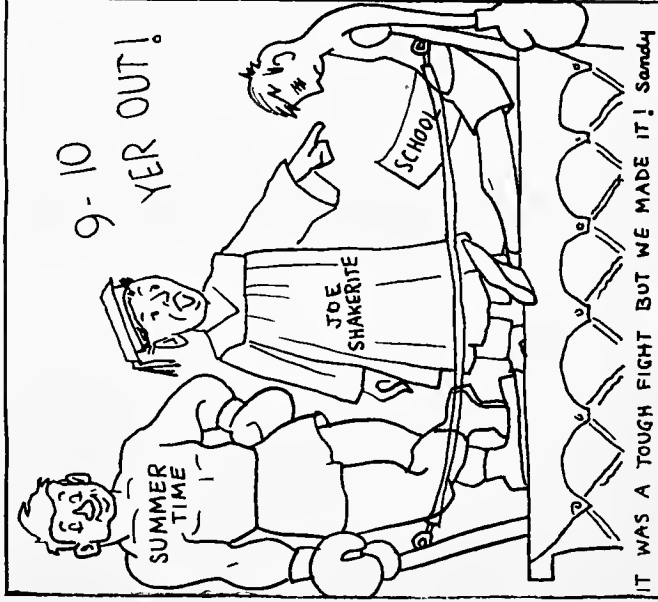

Shaker's student demerit council, which will operate next year under a revised demerit system, has been chosen. Senior members will be Nora Richman and Jim Grossman; juniors, Barbara Reese and Jack Kovach. Earl Biederman, school vice-president, will head the council.

539 Tickets Sold; H.R. 124 Wins

Under the direction of Mr. Halderman and Mr. Haines, the representatives chosen for each homeroom did a tremendous job. As an added incentive, top prizes of $15, $10, and $5 were offered for the three top homerooms, and coming through for them were one junior and two sophomores. Jack Goodman of junior H. R. 124 outclassed all salesmen with 50 tickets sold to cop the $15 prize. Next were Dan Clawson (200B) with 27 tickets, and Dick Morrison (308) with 21. A total of 539 tickets were sold, needless to say a very satisfactory total.

Honors Awarded Shakerites
Miss Jean Anderson recently received an invitation to participate in a two-day work conference of School Library Supervisors in Washington on June 26-27 to consider the problems regarding the techniques of supervision.

Bill Tesmer was awarded a prize of fifty dollars by the Cleveland section of the American Chemical Society last week for his process of converting banana stalks into a strong heavy paper. Paul Hexter received an honorable mention for his photo-micrographs of crystals.

Troupe 815 of N. T. S. Reaches New Membership Peak of 49

Troupe 815 of the National Thespian Society will reach a new high of forty-nine members this month, with seven students achieving the rank of Honor Thespian and five students earning the Star Thespian rating.

After each play this year new Thespians have been elected and twenty-seven new members were initiated after "As You Like It." These people were added to the group: seniors: James Bennet, Helmut Cruttenden, Dick Kaufman, and Bruce Meyers; juniors: Carmen Cimoroni, Dave Demson, Nathalie Robbins, and Dave Speck; sophomores: Sally Brown, Helen Dickey, Paul Fredrix, Toby Glassman, Marilyn Howell, Maggie Houk, Harvey Mierke, and Dick Woody.

The final initiation of this school year after "The Curious Savage" brought in five new members. They were Barbara Kronheim, John Fisher, Pat Bidle, Melinda Shuster, and Alice Saunders. These students have gained Thespian membership by completing fifty hours of crew work or acting assignments and working in at least two drama productions.

An unusual number of Star Thespian awards have been achieved this year. Star Thespians include Allen Brunner, Earl Biederman, Ronald Guentzer, Elaine Hassler, and Kathy Hughes. To earn this award a student must work approximately one hundred twenty-five hours on drama productions.

For the first time this year Shaker students have gained the Honor Thespian rating. This award is given only to those who have done some outstanding work in dramatics and who have spent at least two hundred hours on drama productions.

Seven seniors, Carol Barr, Kimmont Hofftsma, Carol Kaufman, Nancy Levering, Shirley Rask, Hod Rowen, and Elwood Smith have gained this honor.

Down in the Valley

Operetta Presented by Fifth Choir

Square dancing, fighting, romance, and excitement were all seen last Friday in the fifth period choir's presentation of "Down in the Valley."

Al Brunner, the Narrator, helped the Choir tell the story of Brack Weaver's love for Jennie Parsons and the interference of the villain, Thomas Bouche. Jack Moran played Brack Weaver opposite Nancy Kemper as Jennie Parsons. Thomas Bouche was played by Dick Kramer.

Other members of the choir with speaking parts were Howard Filston, Jennie's father; Carmen Cimoroni, the preacher; Dick Maroney, Peters, Brack's friend in prison; Jerry Way, the prison guard.

This production, which was presented without admission charge, on Friday, May 23, was followed by dancing in the girls gym. There was square-dancing from 9:00 to 10:00 and social dancing from 10:00 to 12. The opera was also performed at the P.T.A. meeting last Monday, May 26.

Included in the opera were the folk tunes, "Down in the Valley," "The Lonesome Dove," "Little Black Train," "Sourwood Mountain," and "Hop Up, My Ladies." Kurt Weill, who wrote the opera, is also known for "Knickerbocker Holiday," "September Song," and "Lady in the Dark."

More Art Awards!

In the last issue of the Shakerite the names and awards given to students in the Halle Brothers Regional Scholastic Arts Contest were published. The work of these students receiving keys in the regional contest was sent to Pittsburgh for the National Scholastic Art Contest.

Those receiving 25 dollar awards were: Victor Kord, pencil drawing and crayon drawing; Myrel Papurt, textile design; Sally Fullerton, textile design.

Those receiving place awards were: Victor Kord, crayon drawing; Dave Reimer, general design; and Ken Chiara, opaque water.

Mayor Meshorer and His Staff Lead Community for Week

You probably saw the picture of Shaker's student "Mayor," Marc Meshorer, and a few of his staff. These potential officers of the law for our fair city of Shaker Heights were chosen from the American Government classes. They did a nice job of looking over the duties of Mayor and his staff last week, although they encountered a few experiences that even the actual officers would not have to cope with.

Mayor Mark Meshorer checked all his services to see that the directors were fulfilling their jobs to the best of their abilities. Also, he advised Mayor Barkley on how he thought a few affairs should be run.

Helping Mayor Meshorer with his duties was Marilyn Williams, his secretary.

Marylou Beutel was the Director of the law, the right hand to the mayor. Marylou helped decide many of the technical matters. She also approved of a policeman before he was sworn in.

The position of Service Director was filled by Sue Richards. She was in charge of collecting garbage and cleaning up the streets. A funny episode was created when Sue called her mother (who did not know of her daughter's job) to tell her that the front sidewalk of their home was finally being fixed. Mrs. Richards was quite surprised when she found out that her little daughter did it. Helping Sue was a very efficient little secretary, Nancy Fullerton.

Jo Ann David was the Finance Director. In other words she handled all the money, which is very complicated when the Police department brings in money from speedsters, such as, Pat Tracewell, who was brought up before Julia Doyle, the Director of Traffic. Poor Pat was fined $8.00, but that should teach her! Julia was later given a lie detector test.

Pete Merrill was the Police Chief. He conscientiously checked on the maximum speed of the Police Department's new Fords, and borrowed several official-looking signs for his car.

Fire Chief Stu Neye enthroned himself on a fire engine with his secretary Marilyn Basinger, who said the morning was a hot one.

Bertha Samas was in charge of the Rescue Squad.

Barbara Kronheim was health director. Kathy Hughes was the chief of detectives, and while she was on duty, a car was stolen. Kathy spent the morning riding around with two detectives, hot on the thief's trail.

Elliott Schlang was the Director of Transportation and Mary Adler was his secretary.

Elizabeth Williams won first in the state and second in the regional national French contest of third year students. Kinny Hoitsma won second in the fourth year state contest.

Class of '52 Leaves Shaker; Looks Ahead to College Life

Memories of High School Days Sadden Sentimental Seniors

As the last few days of school draw to a close, the annual epidemic of nostalgia is attacking the seniors with its usual force, leaving them tearfully (?) reminiscing over the things they'll never forget about their high-school days. Things like:

That ever-present aroma of formaldehyde on the third floor . . .
 Hod Rowen's pipe . . . Mr. Jones' dirty laugh just before he gives a chemistry test . . . Dennis O'Brien's chauffeur shirt . . . Jo David's sun-tan . . . Paul Singer's questions . . . Nancy Fullerton's poodle-cut . . .
 Steve Mihaly's jokes . . . Marv Jo Cornella's camera . . . Mr. Harbourn's "blitzes" . . . Carmen Cimoron's pokes in the ribs . . . Steve Clawson's love for taking things apart . . . Temp Lowry's speed . . . Tom Royan's blank expression in English class . . . Mr. Henry's demerits . . . Lois Early's half-awakeness in home room every morning . . . Sue Richard's habit of closing one eye when she looks at you . . . Janet Price's walk . . .
 Sandy Quay's smile . . . Don Hale's ukulele solos . . . Jack Moran's muscles . . . the Dairy Queen during Exam Week . . . Phil Wick's big grin . . . Sandy Sobransky's way with women . . . Bob Smoots' infectious laugh . . . The girls in Glenn Gali's car at noon . . . Jolly Jon's on a Saturday night . . . Barb Coy and Nancy Hyde's craziness . . . Joanne Farragher's deep voice . . . Barbara Dells-Baeyer's sweetness . . . Greg Holmes' baseball team . . . Bert Samas' cheering . . . George King's imitations of prominent school figures . . . Burns Weston's talent . . .

Jim Flynn's yellow convertible . . . Sam Silverman and Earl Biederman's comedy team . . . Jack Doyle's gasping laugh . . . the girls taking sunbaths on the bleachers every spring . . . Bill Boardman's attraction to senior women . . . Tom Maroney's corduroy hat . . . Marylou Beutels' famous bird-walks . . . and the warm friendliness of Shaker High.

Shaker Alumna From Japan Has Her Book In School Library

Just imagine! A Japanese girl going to Shaker Heights High School. You ask when? In 1933, Yoko Matsuoka, the daughter of a Japanese journalist, came to Shaker Heights after having been in the United States for only one year. The many problems which Yoko encountered here at Shaker, the life she led at a school in Korea in the early days of the Japanese Occupation, her seven years here in America (including a college education at Swarthmore), combine to make a very interesting autobiography which Yoko Matsuoka has written entitled "Daughter of the Pacific." This story deals with the really passionate effort which Yoko spent in trying to understand America and Americans, and her desire to build a bridge of understanding between her native Japan and the Americas.

Have any of you boys ever heard of Heard Island? Probably not, as it is a small island about 500 to 600 miles from Antarctica. But as you might know, if you read The White Continent by Thomas Henry, fourteen Australians went to this island to establish a very important weather station. The dangers and adventures which these men had, will make very interesting reading for boys interested in this type of work.

Another new book which the library has just gotten in, is Sorority Girl by Anne Emery, author of several teen-age books, among which are Going Steady and Senior Year.

Now is the season for baseball, and many of you boys should be interested in a book by Frank O'Rourke entitled Never Come Back. Here is told the story of a man's comeback in the great sport of baseball.

A scene from the senior play, "The Curious Savage," presented on the ninth and tenth of May. Mr. Crosby was the faculty director, and Mr. Caldwell was in charge of technical problems. The proceeds went to the senior class.

Mrs. Savage (Nancy Levering) and Miss Willie (Carol Kaufman) discuss the bright red hat Mrs. Savage was wearing when she came to "The Cloisters," a mental institution. Mrs. Savage is the leading character, and Miss Willie the nurse in the play, "The Curious Savage," which was presented here several weeks ago.

'The Curious Savage' Smashing Hit; Nancy Levering Success as Lead

On May 9 and 10 Shaker was invaded by a happy group of slightly demented people when the Dramatic Department looked their audience inside the walls of "The Cloisters," a mental institution, in the comedy "The Curious Savage." This play was sponsored by the senior class in order to finance their prom.

The cast, a relatively small one, included Nancy Levering, playing the leading role as Mrs. Savage; Alice Saunders, Florence; Paul Fredrix, Hani; Sally Brown, Fairy; Dick Woody, Jeff; and Pat Bidle, Mrs. Paddy. All the above were inmates of the institution. Playing members of the staff were Carol Rowen as Dr. Eummet and Carol Kaufman as Miss Willie. John Fisher, Titus; Elwood Smith, Samuel; and Melinda Shuster, Lily Belle, portrayed the Savage sons and daughter.

The play centered around a very sane and kindly widow whose step-children had her committed to "The Cloisters" so that they might have her money. After the theft of ten million dollars and other hilarious adventures, Mrs. Savage was released, having found the inmates much sweeter and nicer than her children and many other "sane" people.

The production was directed by Mr. Robert Crosby and the set was designed by Mr. Kenneth Caldwell. Student directors were Toby Glassman and Dave Demson.

As the 1952 seniors look back on the three years of their lives here at Shaker, this year stands out as the best. It's not just the idea of being seniors, but the scores of new things that have been put through. The biggest change has come in the social program, but that's far from being all.

Seniors Reminisce: 3 Happy Years Bring Change at Shaker

Led by Miss Young, the school's first social director, the Gold Diggers' Dance, the Turnabout Dance, the Football Jamboree, the Hallween Party, the Christmas Party, and the class parties and picnics took place, most of them for the first time. The success of all of these affairs has been unique. The Junior Prom can be accurately called one of the most different and best attended proms in the school's history.

Perhaps the most praise worthy change of all was the student planned-and-executed decoration of the Elbow Room. The first change of the school year mustn't be forgotten. When school opened last fall, a beautiful panelling job on the girls' gym was nearing completion; this, and sound proofing, helped a lot.

Another highlight of the year was the thrill-packed wrestling season, which found our wrestlers rated as one of the toughest teams in the state. The track team has to be congratulated also. They developed into quite a threat themselves, faring very well in all the big meets they entered. Then there was one team that kept a Lake Erie League championship for the old Alma Mater, the fall edition of the tennis

Seniors Hold Second Successful Picnic at Chagrin Falls Rink

Forgetting completely that the weatherman had predicted ruin, the 1952 seniors held their second picnic. It was a smashing success. I say smashing because that also explains what happened to the Chagrin Falls Roller Rink. The floor got a pretty good mopping up. However, there was some talent present. Bill Tesmer with some of the regulars out at the rink got together and demonstrated the flea hop.

The festivities began with numerous and sundry games at Squaw Rock. The shelter house provided a beautiful place to double time to the records played by John Gates and company. Another demonstration was in order here as Steve Mihaly and Bert Samas showed how they won the Charleston contest held at Shaker a few years back.

School buses bridged the gap between the picnic and the roller rink, and things soon got rolling again. A nostalgic atmosphere reigned on the return trip, when all the old songs, dimaxed by the Alma Mater, floated through the buses.

The class would like very much to take this opportunity to thank Miss Young and the other members of the faculty who acted as chaperones, and the student committees that planned the affair.

Teachers Take Off For Distant Places

Next fall there will be many faces missing in Shaker's halls. Among them will be several teachers who are taking a year's leave of absence or who are retiring or resigning.

Mr. Jones plans to finish his thesis and obtain his degree of Doctor of Education. He will stay in Cleveland and be enrolled in Western Reserve University. Miss McCracken has not yet made any definite plans for her year's leave of absence, except to visit her sister. Two of our teachers are to be married by next fall. Our librarian, Miss Mealand, is taking a trip to Paris to visit her family during the summer and will return the first part of August on the new boat, The United States. In late August she will be married and live in Cleveland. Miss Komp, after being married, will live in Akron. Although his plans aren't definite, Mr. Moritz expects to do some traveling in Mexico and then to points in the southwest next year.

What Is the Answer—

Questions You Will Probably Never See on a Test at Shaker

Are the sophomores afraid of getting lost? (i.e. those dog tags!).

Is it spring fever? People who seem to think so are: Judy Sturgis-Bob Ramsdell, Judy Coyle-Ken Kutil, Jean Wood-Dick Kramer, and Sally Scott-Paul Janota.

Just how many people can fit into a swimming pool at once? It gets a bit crowded on Saturday mornings when everyone is trying to make up Miss Harvey's classes. As this went to press, Doty Sord had eighteen!

Is the portable radio that Mrs. Carothers got from her son still playing? The batteries should be about dead now.

Have you noticed Kinny Holtsma is missing something? It's nothing really, just an old used appendix which he had removed a couple of weeks ago in an emergency operation.

Does Dolores Messerman just want to get away from us all? She has accelerated in her school courses, going to summer school for three years so that she can graduate at the end of this summer. Now a member of the junior class, Dolores will be a freshman at Ohio State University next fall.

Do you remember your "first or child"? The following people may never have received any up to now, but they deserve them: Fred Rudin, athletic treasurer; Stan Bernstein, business manager of Student Council, all for next year. Marty Buchman deserves one for the really brilliant job of Latin translation that won him a prize, as does Elwood Smith for continued high honors in piano recitals and auditions in and around Cleveland.

Have you ever known such scheming boys with such huge appetites? The dates of the Hi-Y fellows who had such a tremendous picnic at Centerville Mills thank the boys and hope they enjoyed the food the girls brought.

Ever think of joining the "horsey set"? Barbara Finn, Polly Smith, Patsy Wiles, Judy Wang, Miriam Nora Richman is shown modeling a navy blue dressy dress at the recent X-Teen Style Show, on Monday, May 12.

Brooker, Phyllis Lewis, Joy Cromwell, and Judy Weinberg finished up a year of Wednesday afternoon horseback riding with a supper ride at Sleepy Hollow Riding Academy on Monday, May 26.

How about a repeat of some "big hands" as dished out at a recent pep assembly? The kids who got ratings in the recent Greater Cleveland Instrumental Solo Contest were Gary Schnerer, Betty Lou Nitchie, Jerry Adlin, and Elwood Smith, who received superior ratings. Those awarded second place awards were Victor Kord, George Pike, Jean Vollman, and Brass Sextette and Clarinet Quartet.

Howie Nudelman, Warren Wetzler, Dick Brandes, Walt Willis, Marg Matter, Pat Drechsel, and Jane McLaughlin have become adept at telling people all about SHS. Three weeks ago they did just this for the Junior High School and P-T. A., to get next year's sophomores and their parents acquainted with the high school.

Girls Leaders Club Holds Annual Mother-Daughter Awards Tea

Following the pattern of flowers and teas in May, the Girls Leaders Club of Shaker Heights High School held their annual Mother-Daughter Awards Tea, May twenty-first at four o'clock in the high school cafeteria.

Here 57 junior and senior girls received their varsity letters, 9 seniors received gold cups, and Carol Telepak received a gold key, the highest athletic award that can be given to a girl in Shaker. In order to receive a letter the girls had to earn a total of 500 points in intramural sports or swimming. A certain amount is given to a girl for going out for an after-school sport or a swimming pageant and if any girl makes a varsity team, she receives more points. In order to receive a cup, a girl must earn at least 1000 points, and for a key, 1500 points are needed.

At the tea, the new officers of the Leaders' Club were installed.

The guest speaker was Miss Clarice Poniatowski, physical education teacher at John Marshall High School.

Racketeers on Top In Win-Loss Column

Helping to carry Shaker to victory on the courts this season were Marc Meshorer, competing in first singles; Jay Davis, in first and second singles; and Buzzy Althaus, in third singles. In the doubles competition Shaker was represented by Jerry Herman and Harry Lehman, first doubles; Phil Crystal and Jim Rosenthal, second doubles; with Alan Newman, Dave Bloomfield, Don Webb and Don Hale acting as alternates.

With this year slowly coming to a close, on the tennis courts Shaker recently completed its spring season victoriously with a win-loss record of 5-3. On their string of victories for the season they had Western Reserve Academy by a score of 3 to 2; East Tech, 5 to 0; Benedictine, 4 to 1; Heights, 4 to 1; and Youngstown, 5 to 0. Although all wasn't victory, they fell to defeat only at the hands of Shaw, 4 to 1; Gilmore Academy, 5 to 0; and University School, 4 to 0.

Lowry Wins 440, Mile Relay Sets Mark, O'Brien Jumps 11'6"

Since winning the home opener against Willoughby by a 93-23 margin, the Red Raider track team of '52 has proven itself one of the best and most powerful in the area. The cinder men are undefeated in dual meets and only a strong Mentor State meets able to tie them. In following weeks District and State meets loomed the largest and the team certainly did well in both contests. After the Willoughby meet, Shaker traveled to the Mansfield Relays, where they took fifth out of 74 teams from all over the state. Even more important—the Raiders carried off the coveted Sportsmanship Trophy, awarded for the best show of sportsmanship on and off the field.

After returning from Mansfield, Shaker smothered the Shaw Cardinals to the tune of 91½-26½. Next came the Hilltop Meet with arch-rival Cleveland Heights and U. S. Heights' Tigers managed to win with 68½ points while Shaker took second with 56½ and U. S. finished third. The next test was Lorain whose Steelmen met defeat by a 72-46 score. By this time others were taking notice of the Raiders' powerful squad and they were conceding a chance to finish among the top five at the West Tech Relays.

Lowry Stars at Relay

On the night of May 2, they did even better, as they capped third place, behind only mighty East Tech and Central. Shaker won the pole vault, placed third in the 880-yard relay and shot put and fifth in the two-mile relay, but the top event of the meet was the final one, the mile relay. Mel Pattison ran the first lap and was in second as he passed the baton to Steve Lampl. Steve ran a great second lap to put the Red Raiders entry in first, but after Bob Ruffini had passed the Shaker to anchor man Temp Lowry, Shaker was in third, behind East Tech and Central. Temp started about 12 yards behind Vernon Mays, Tech's fine quarter-miler, but slowly started to make up the lost ground, and running the last 50 yards on courage alone, he lunged across the tape in first place, three tenths of a second ahead of Mays. His time was a blazing 49.2, his best of the year, and the total for the event was an excellent 3:33.5. After the race, Ivan Greene, coach of the victorious Scarab team, paid Temp a real tribute when he said, "That boy is not good, he is great!" Shaker piled up 17 points as the East Tech took 30 to win the meet.

With only five days' rest, the cinder men then faced undefeated Mentor, whose coach, Lee Tressel, figured out beforehand, that the meet should end in a 59-59 tie. The meet was so close, and the teams so evenly matched that his prophecy actually came true. Mentor took the lead with first and third in the hurdles but Shaker took over when

Underdog Shaker Upsets League

Corky Smith hung up his third straight victory within the space of seven days as against one setback when he blanked Elyria by allowing one hit, 5-0. The Red Raiders were able, however, to garner only two hits from the losers—two doubles by Mort Janko and Sarge Karch.

Earlier that week, Shaker, which had lost its first three league starts, came from behind with one run in the bottom of the fifth inning on a perfect squeeze play by Karch scoring George King to hand Elyria its first setback of the season, 4-3.

Shaker's victory tossed the LEL race into bedlam. Because of the reshuffling of the LEL schedule to determine the district team, Shaker traveled to Cleveland Heights for an afternoon game the following afternoon.

The Red Raiders continued to play the role as "spoilers" by erasing Cleveland Heights from the LEL picture when they outlasted Heights in a 16-11 slugfest lasting nearly three hours of playing time. Jack Moran's three-run homer and his defensive fielding plus Smith's relief pitching in the last two innings paced Shaker.

At the present time, Coach Fred Heinlen is organizing his summer baseball teams. Tentatively, the varsity will play Class C ball, while the juniors and sophomores play Class D. He will have a backed Class E team for the future tenth graders.
